THE 1970 PANTHER

PRESENTED BY
THE SENIOR CLASS
OF
CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL
YORK, PA.
VOLUME XXVII

DEDICATED TO
RICHARD H. KUHN JR.
IN APPRECIATION
FOR

... his dynamic leadership and genuine friendship with the Class of 1970. It is not surprising that the relationship between the student body and Mr. Kuhn has been so warm. He has discussed their problems, listened to the opinions, experienced their tribulations, and shared their laughter; and we found that strangely enough there seemed to be no "generation gap." Mr. Kuhn befriended us, not just a segment of us, but the entire student body. He has accomplished this partially through Student Council, but to a greater degree through personal contact with the students of Central.

The Senior class along with the rest of the student body wish Mr. Kuhn renewed success as he leaves the halls of Central and give our thanks to a man, a teacher, a friend.

You weren't serious when you wrote that answer were you?

Tapping his time away.

SCHOOL BOARD

First Row, Left to Right: Mr. Fred Mason, Mr. Robert Warren, Mr. Edward Roberts. Second Row: Mr. Harry McCarthy, Mr. Raymond Bloom, Mr. Robert Minnich,

Mr. Victor Hamme, Mr. Harris Rush, Mr. Fred Chantiles.

The theme of the 1970 edition of the Central High School Panther appropriately expresses the genuine concern of mankind for its common future. Since birth your parents have encouraged you and given you the many benefits of their own financial and social experiences. The schools you have attended have further added to the values you now cherish. Now, finally, you have reached a plateau from which you have only a brief moment of time to decide which direction your life will follow. Choose wisely, choose carefully, and then go. Go--not alone, but with the well-wishes and prayers of all who have stood here before you. Go--not afraid, but with the courage of your faith to guide you. Go--not furtively, "the whole world is watching" you.

Richard E. Walters
Principal

PRINCIPALS

This young generation needs the attention which they desire, for the problems which they face have never before been solved. The problems must be solved by these Americans if the world is to survive.

The Class of 1970 has prepared for the task before them. Now we will hopefully watch as they attempt to succeed where we have failed, as they attempt to change where we were unable to change, and as they help where we could only hope.

STUDENT TEACHERS

Student teaching has become increasingly popular as the students of Central found out this year. We hosted ten such ambitious, bright-eyed amateurs during the course of this action packed school year.

Being a student teacher at Central isn't the easiest thing in the world as our ten fearless teachers in training can tell you. First of all, in order to be good at this occupation one must have nerves of steel and lightening fast reactions. One never knows what the students of Central have up their sleeves, spit ball, flying pennies, and even rocket propelled peas aren't unusual at CHS. A student teacher must also be prepared to listen to the intellectual programs of Central's regular teachers, which can sometimes be rather unstimulating for such creative minds. When the prospective teacher finally gets the chance to prove that he is a natural born professor of his field of study, his college training is turned toward getting through to the love sick, scenically dazed minds of the students at CHS which, to say the least, is rather nerve racking. He must be emotionally stable before going into his classroom. Being able to control the point at which his temper is no longer under control should be one of his finest characteristics.

In conclusion, the student teachers of Central deserve to be praised. They have proven that they can take it and still remain the same high quality person they were before venturing into the unknown depths of teaching at CHS.

Seniors

'70 WAS
HERE

Yes, '70 was here alright. We came in the year of '67 to the great relief of those at North Hills and to the horror of the C.H.S. seniors. Trying to overcome our newness at Central we attempted to play it cool, but somehow our sophomorism painfully showed through. No class is completely indoctrinated into Central society until it has experienced its first class meeting; and ours was an experience. After a period of flower, color, and motto voting, Mr. Doll was quoted as saying (rather shouting) above the uproar that this would be our first and last class meeting; it was. In order to preserve C.H.S. tradition and class loyalty, jackets were ordered and purchased although a perfect fit was not always guaranteed.

Our first Homecoming came and went and so did our float. But as sophomores we still had our Washington fieldtrip to look forward to. During the course of the trip a few of us got separated from the rest of the group and decided to pay an un-scheduled visit to the Washington Monument. The D.A.R. didn't object as long as we didn't bring along a protest singer.

The year soon ended with the usual week of card playing, and we became elevated to the status of juniors. Now we were no longer underclassmen nor upperclassmen but in a curious state of middle suspension.

September saw the beginning of the float meeting with the promise of more to come. The night before Homecoming we gathered at Automotive Supply to put the finishing touches on a nine foot cave-man. Homecoming came and went again and unfortunately our float along with it. However, a class play was soon to occupy our time, a play that was to become the dramatic hit of the year. "The Crucible" added to our bank account which was to help finance the yearbook already under progress.

May came all too soon bringing with it a hot putrid day of college boards. June and summer vacation followed. And then we were seniors.

THE CRUCIBLE

"The Crucible", a play of emotions, combines the vengeance of a jealous girl with mass hysteria to result in the tragedy of the Salem witch trials. John Proctor, the tragic hero, fights against a frightened, ignorant public to save the life of his wife and the goodness of his soul. But he finds that only in dying can he truly live. "The Crucible", presented by the junior class, was said to be one of the best dramatic selections ever produced on the Central stage. The audience's reaction? They were "bewitched."

The search for the lost contact lens.

Please come down to earth, Mr. D.!

First the Administration building then...

Acclaimed as the worst class since 1953, we returned to school in September determined to correct this erroneous misconception by proving once and for all what we really were--Central's worst class, period. Our class might well also be the most concerned, active, and involved class yet to pass through the hallowed halls of good ole' CHS. The year began with a controversy raging over our class play ROMEO AND JULIET. In the end the Elizabethans, Willy Shakespeare, and G.T.D. won out and we presented York County's first high school Shakespearean Production to S.R.O. crowds.

Football season arrived and the senior class was quick to take the lead both on the field and off, the seniors stimulating a new sense of competition between our old rivals York Suburban and West York. At the close of the season the team was in second place, but the seniors had left 160 lbs. of lime and numerous pumpkins in their wake.

October 15 was Moratorium Day across the country and here at Central as well. Although the administration would allow no planned program, seniors on all sides seemed to be willing to discuss or display their various positions through conversation, by wearing black or red, white and blue arm bands, or by tearing off black armbands. The administration showed their position by tearing down Moratorium posters.

Why do you come, yellow bird?

Romeo and Juliet

The Prologue

CHORUS. Two households, both alike in dignity,
In fair Verona, where we lay our scene,
From ancient grudge break to new mutiny,
Where civil blood makes civil hands unclean.
From forth the fatal lions of these two foes
A pair of star-crosse'd lovers take their life;
Whose misadventured piteous overthrows
Do with their death bury their parents' strife.
The fearful passage of their death-mark'd love,
And the continuance of their parents' rage,
Which, but their children's end, nought could remove,
Is now the two hours' traffic of our stage;
The which if you with patient ears attend,
What here shall miss, or toil shall strive to mend.

William Shakespeare

POEM

AWAIT YOUR DAY

Rebellion is near,
Crisis is craved,
Can we survive that which in common minds, is considered the downfall of YOUTH?

We leave the swirling halls of masses.
And ascent foolheartly on the fields of ivy

Where unrest here, too, is set against us.

Can we survive that which, the prodding people perpetuate or will the YOUTH confused continue the change?

We will survive, to live again, to make us known for years to come.
So ignore the curses against the YOUTH

And strive to rule in elder years and
You may fight in violent state,
And always speak to agitate,
But always remember - your day will come.

Seniors: With light hearts (and heads) our typewriters clicked off the previous personality traits as our contribution to the UNIQUE Class of '70. All were written with malice towards none and charity towards all.

Thank you in advance for your understanding sense of humor.

ELEGY

For everything, there is a season;
A time for love, a time for dying,
A time to forget, a time to remember.
To each his victory in violet vying,
And a pure white snow in the month of December.

The end is the beginning, to God one shall go.
Death can be expressed in many ideal ways,

But the sorrow is real within the mourner.
It's only the first in many a phase,
And the bright gates of Heaven lurk
'round the corner.

The six foot wood box is a permanent home.
The stone on the grave is bare and worn,
And no one will visit in just a few years.
The grass on the stomach shakes silently with scorn,
While the sweet voice of God subdues all the fears.

Do not look at death pessimistically.
Death is inevitable to every play's cast.
And it can be viewed even quite beautifully.
Pray that you will be lucky and ultimately last,
But always it will be there--the elegy.

Enthusiasm and spirit are two ingredients essential for a good sports program. Our cheerleaders are the major catalyst in stimulating the atmosphere of rousing rivalry ever present at C.H.S. athletic contests. Their hours spent practicing and developing new cheers are rewarded not by a newspaper write-up or by a winning score but by the roar of the crowd and the little extra incentive they give the team.

So as in cheers of old: "Knit one, purl two, Cheerleaders we love you!"

FOOTBALL 1969

The Central High 1969 Football Team stumbled to a winning year after great expectations were expressed before the season. Clustered around a mid-season four game winning streak were two exciting wins and four disappointing losses.

The offense was slow to start as they won two close games over York Suburban and Red Lion and lost to Trinity. When the scoring machine was put into motion, we lost a heartbreaker to Southwestern and went down in defeat to Dallastown.

Spring Grove, Susquehannock, and York Catholic were successive victories after the highpoint of the season, a 21-20 win over West York. The final game spoiled the six-four season as Hanover decapitated the Panthers and wiped out all pleasant memories of the year.

Last year's All-Conference passing combination of Mike Spry and Wayne Gouker provided most of the offense, but a potent running attack was led by Keith Diehl and Rick Lauer. Of course, none of it could have been possible without the excellent coaching of Joe Stauffer, Ken Sweger, and Darrell Winters.

As the seniors walked off the field of defeat at Hanover, they looked back on their last year of football as a year of strong conviction, overwhelming victory, and disappointing defeat.

Randy Boll, junior safety, picks off a pass against Suburban.

Twinkletoes.

Through seemingly endless practices at A.M.F., Reservoir Hill, and the infamous Creekbank, the Cross Country team was constantly inspired by such quotations of Coach Myers as, "It must have been the cantaloupe." The team ended the season with a 4-4 league record.

Tom Beshore and Joe Nicely were varsity seniors on a team dominated by underclassmen. Martin Lehr was the leading Central harrier at the Conference Run, placing 12th, and at Districts, finishing 30th. The prospects for next year look bright with six varsity harriers returning. "L.G.T."

Schmidt's ONE beautiful serve.

Under the close scrutiny of Mr. Witman, the tennis team again ran onto the sloping courts of the Central High parking lot and began their fourth year of league competition. Returning lettermen Denny Schmidt, John Garber, and Ken Krach gave the team the depth it had lacked in previous years and resulted in the best record in several seasons. The three win-seven loss season does leave room for improvement; but the hustle and determination of the team represents a record of which any school can be proud.

Coach Witman, optimistic about next year's team appropriately summed up this year's season, "Well we had a good time anyway." And that, after all is one of the most important aspects of any sport, to enjoy it.

Coach Witman: "I'll get that #?!@* bee yet!

"Timers and scorers ready?" "Captains ready?" "Timing with the whistle." These are some of the phrases well known to the starting line-up of the hockey team. To those who play, "two laps around the track" are also to be remembered.

For the first time the girls have done what so many people feared would never happen. They won not one game, not two games, but THREE scoring games.

The girls were emotionally torn between sorrow and happiness. Oh, those winning days-this team was "psyched out of their minds!"

Miss Spangler (Spang) the new head coach had many encouraging words for her team, "You lemons can win if you really want to!" "You must unite, work together as a team."

Best of luck to next year's team. "Keep the Unity!"

Spang, all wrapped up in her work.

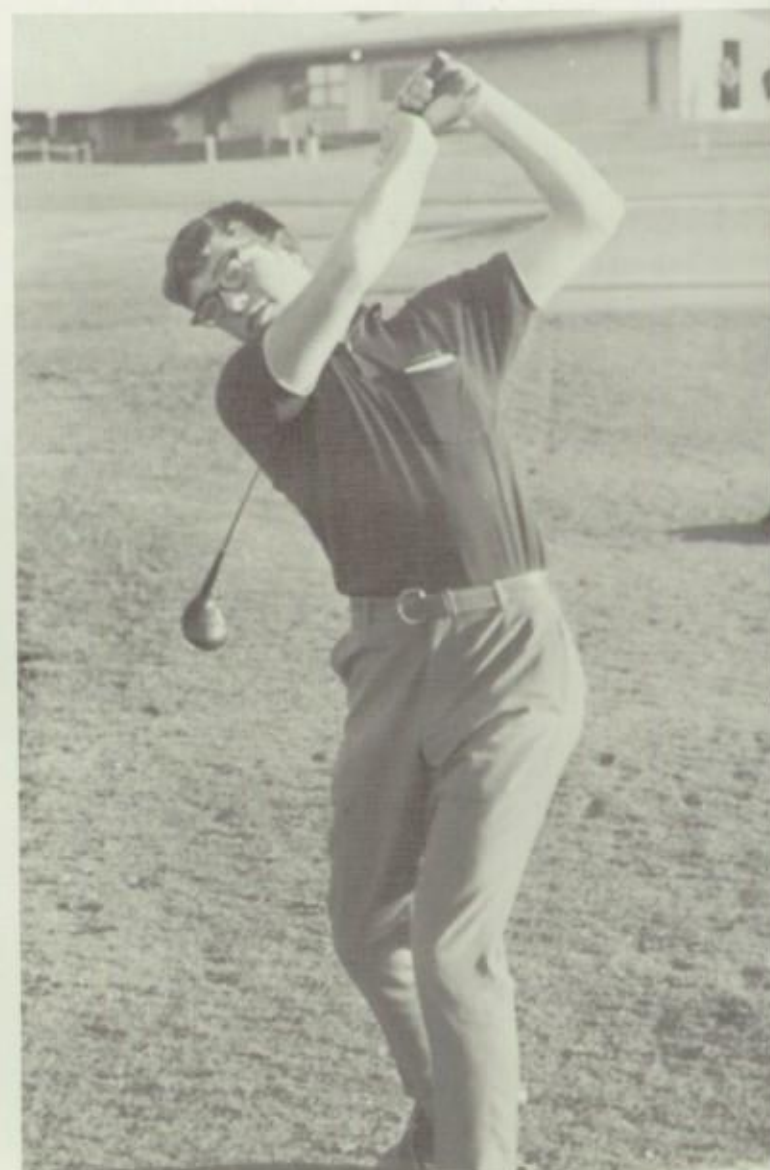

The object of golf is, of course, to put the little white ball into a tiny hole in the least amount of strokes. With three returning lettermen, the Central linksmen had high hopes to accomplish just that during the 1969 season. They did it, but only at times, as our putting Panthers drove and chipped to a 6 and 6 record.

The team was composed of mainly three seniors: Joe Giomariso, Chip Fry, and Craig Mehring; a sophomore, Tim Reed; and a freshman, Paul Brown.

Next year, the team will be rebuilding after the loss of three men but will have a fine selection of sophomores and juniors to choose from.

Joe G. fights his way out of a sand trap.

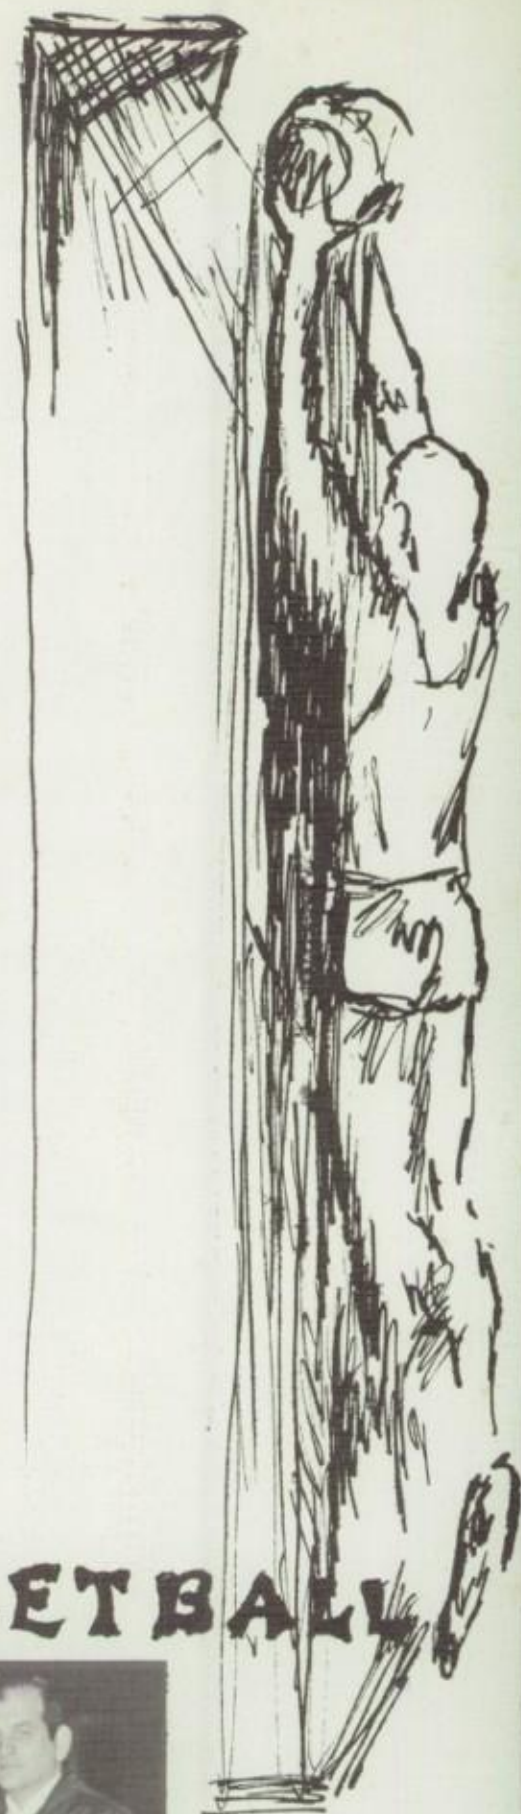

The Panther basketball team started the '69-'70 season with less than optimistic predictions. With West York, Spring Grove and Hanover in the limelight, the Central five faced an impossible mission at the beginning of the year. Their slow start with three losses in the first six games seemed to prove the sports writers' correct; nevertheless, the fightin' Panthers stormed back to win nine out of their last 12 league games.

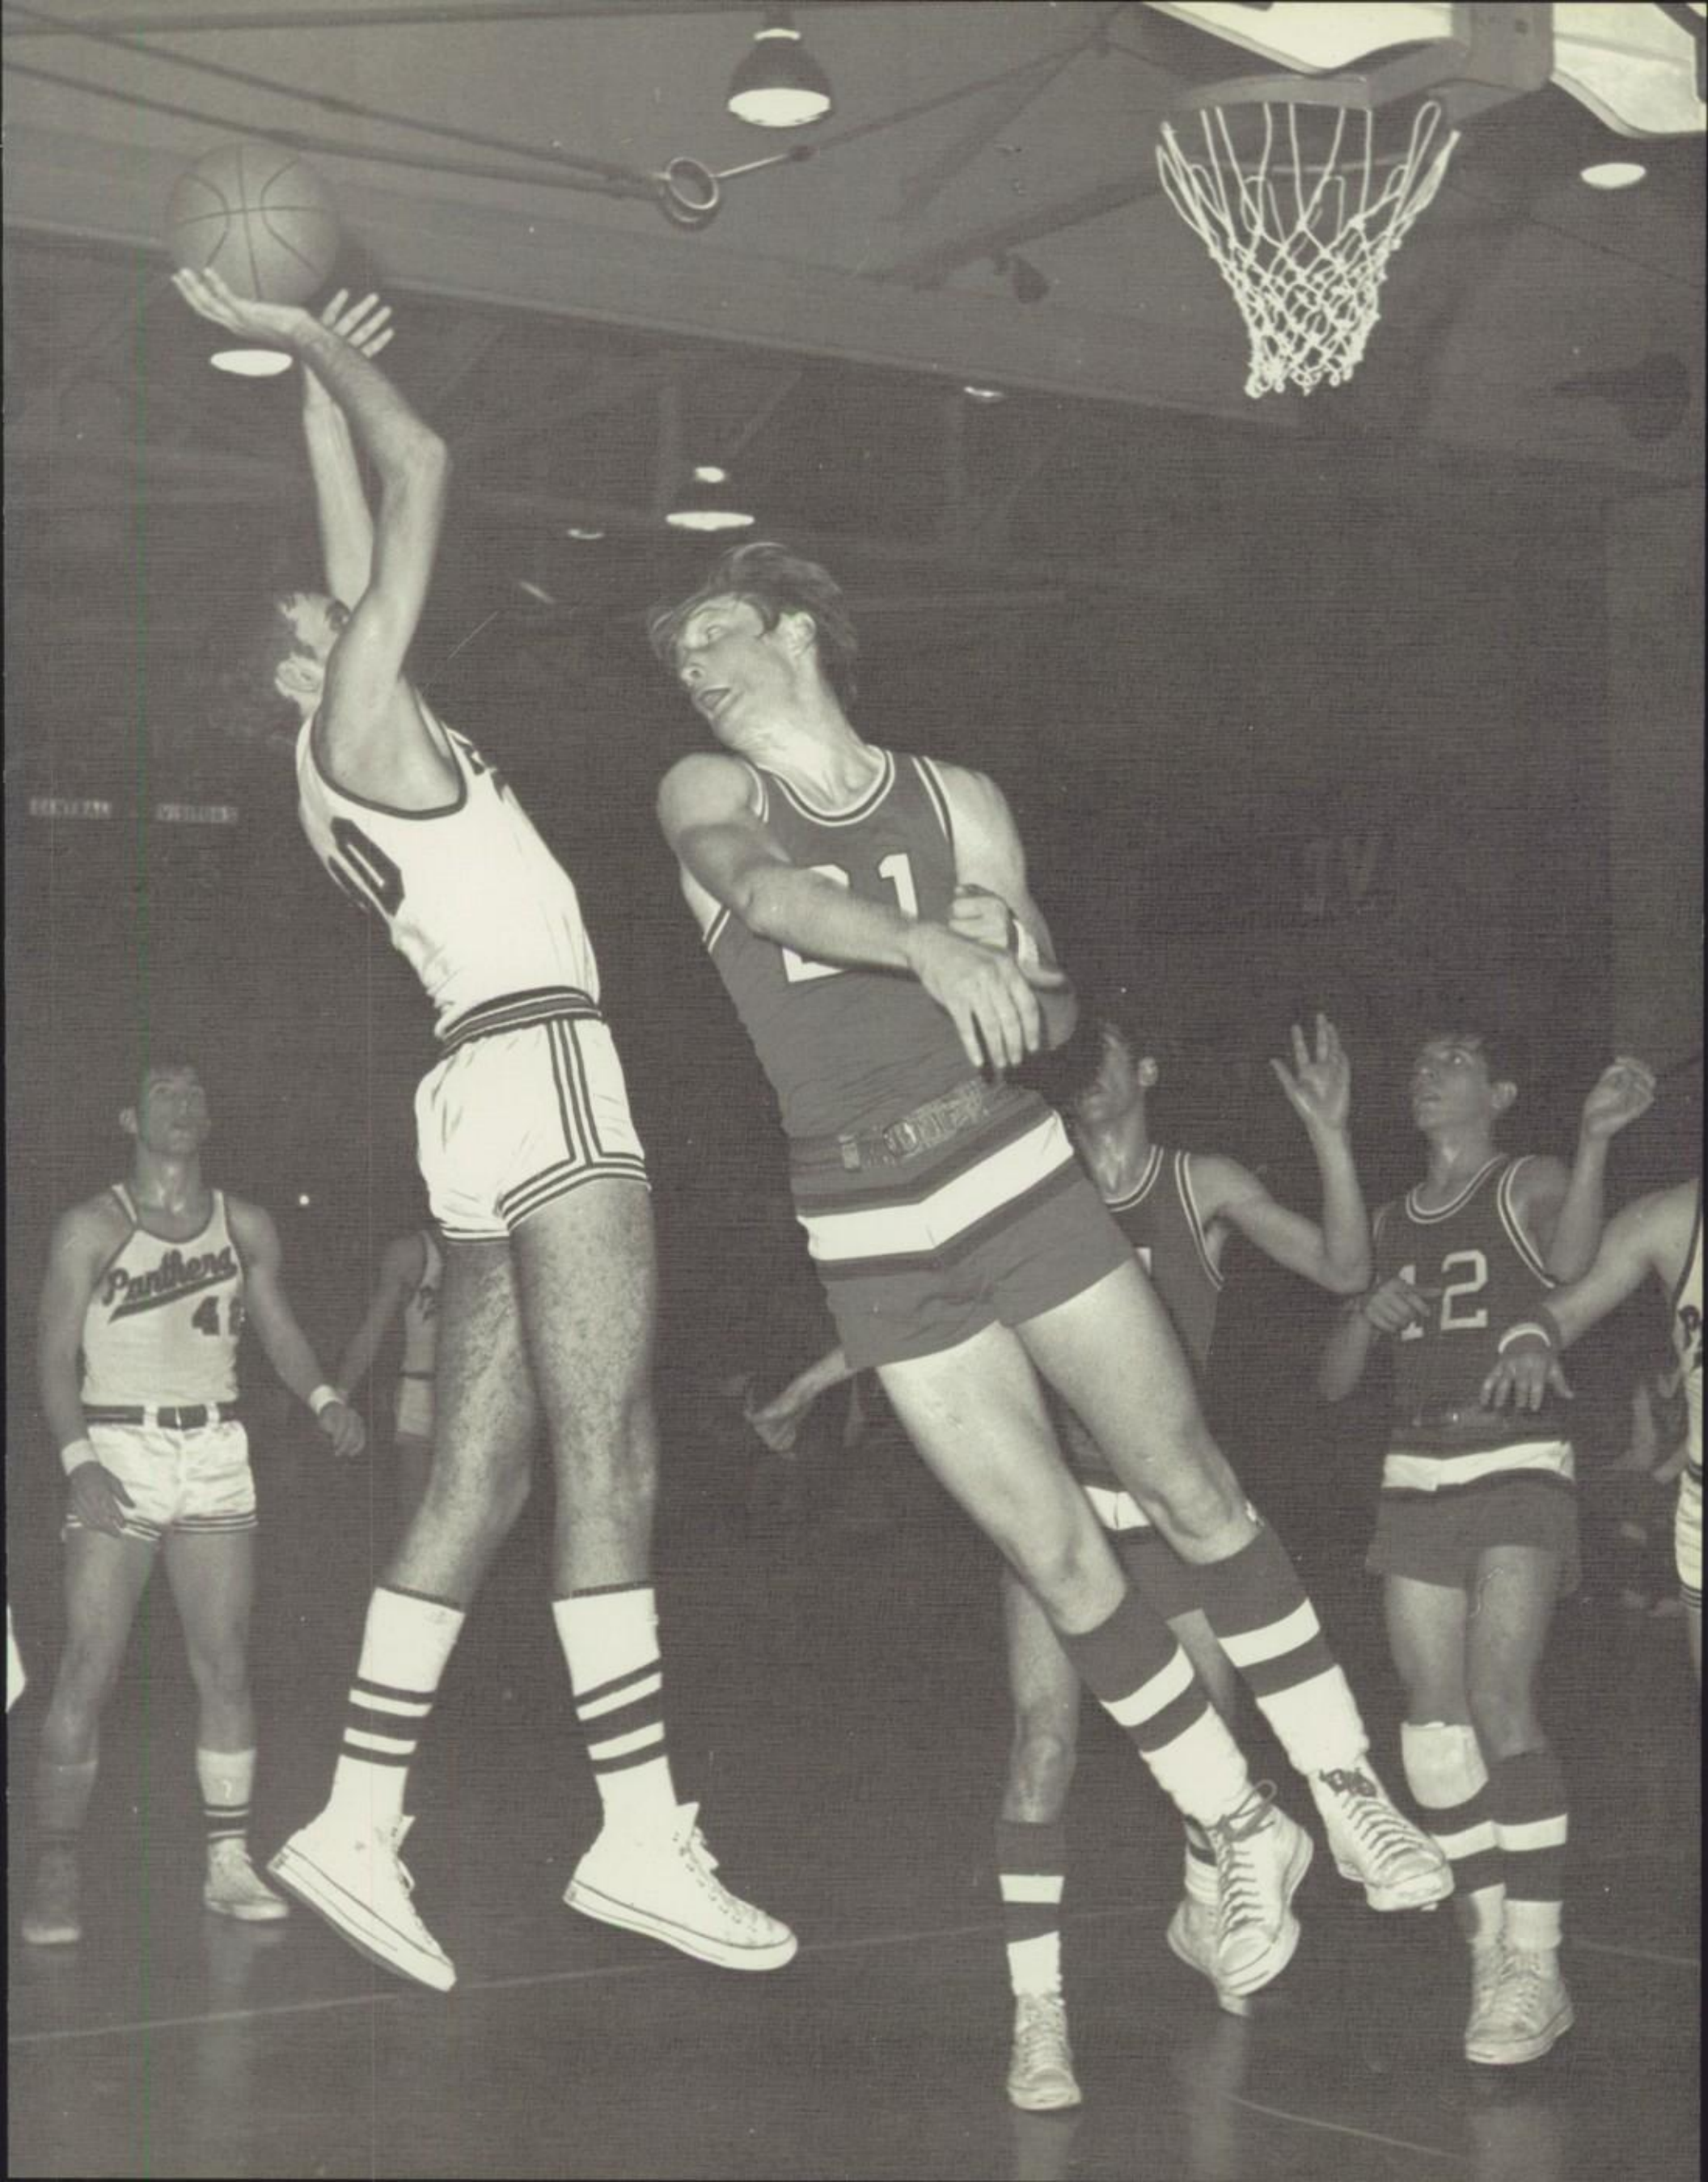

The highlight of the season came in the last league game when the team squeaked out a second place tie with West York by defeating the Bullfrogs (oops, Bulldogs) by two points. In the play off game for the Western Division, Class A playoff spot, the same West York team croaked under pressure. The Panthers finally ended up on the right side of the lily pad. Though Central lost to Cumberland Valley in the quarter-finals of the District 3 playoffs, everyone felt satisfied for at least procuring the playoff spot.

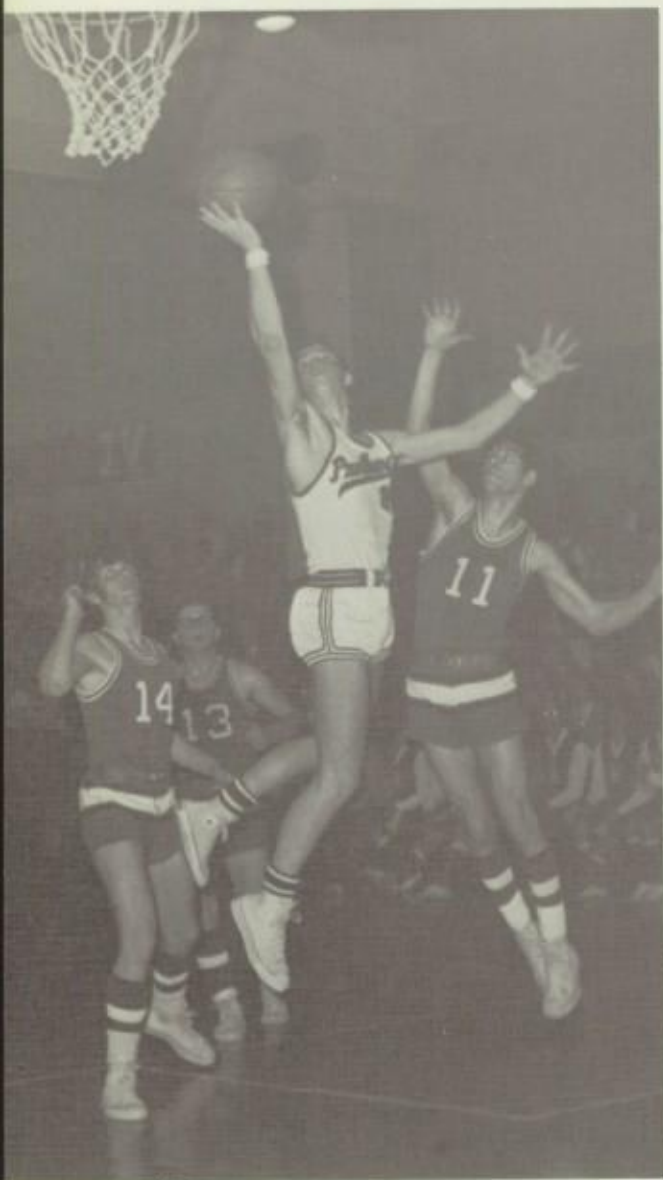

Craig Mehring proved to be the star of the year with a 19.19 average per game, but he was aided ably by Chip Fry with a 15 point average. Mike Wonders, a pleasant surprise as a sophomore, took over the rebounding chores, while Tom Beshore again proved a deft ball handler. Wayne Gouker was adequate as a scorer and provided 13 points per game. These five, with Mike Spry as a sixth man, changed from a uncoordinated team of five stars into a well-oiled machine of five gears.

J.V. BASKETBALL

The J.V.'s this year lacked what could be called experience; however what they gave up in knowledge and ability they made up for with determination. Their season turned out to be a surprise but by the end of the year they were starting to resemble a team. With Gary Geiselman at the helm they rode to six victories and many heart-breaking defeats.

In the words of a poet, after all "experience is the best teacher."

Oh, the pain!

Pull him over, Obi!

Going for the pin.

For the first time in the history of Central High School, the C.H.S. grapplers finished with an 8 and 5 season, bettering any record prior to this time. Definite improvement was seen by a greater number of enthusiastic fans. After three years of dedicated coaching, Coach Leaman has brought the matmen to a level where the school can be proud of them.

Seniors, who wrestled their last match as a team, all scored overwhelming victories over their Hanover opponents. The four Seniors include: 112 Dave Hawk (10-2), 127 Don Brillhart (8-3-2), 154 Duane Botterbusch (7-4-1), UNL. Larry Delp (6-5).

Central entered sectionals with six men advancing to the semi-finals but with only Dave Hawk emerging victorious. Dave continued his fine performances by pinning his opponent to become Central's ninth sectional champion and advanced to the District 3 competition where he placed as a semi-finalist. Dave earned victories over Central Dauphin and Newport by large scores.

The jayvee team continued their fine performance by registering an 8 and 1 season. Undefeated wrestlers on the jayvee squad were: 103 Bob Kronenberg, 133 Rick Klinedinst, 145 Allen Rush and 154 Dennis Goodwin.

Continued good performance is expected due to increased interest and larger squads with more experience and depth.

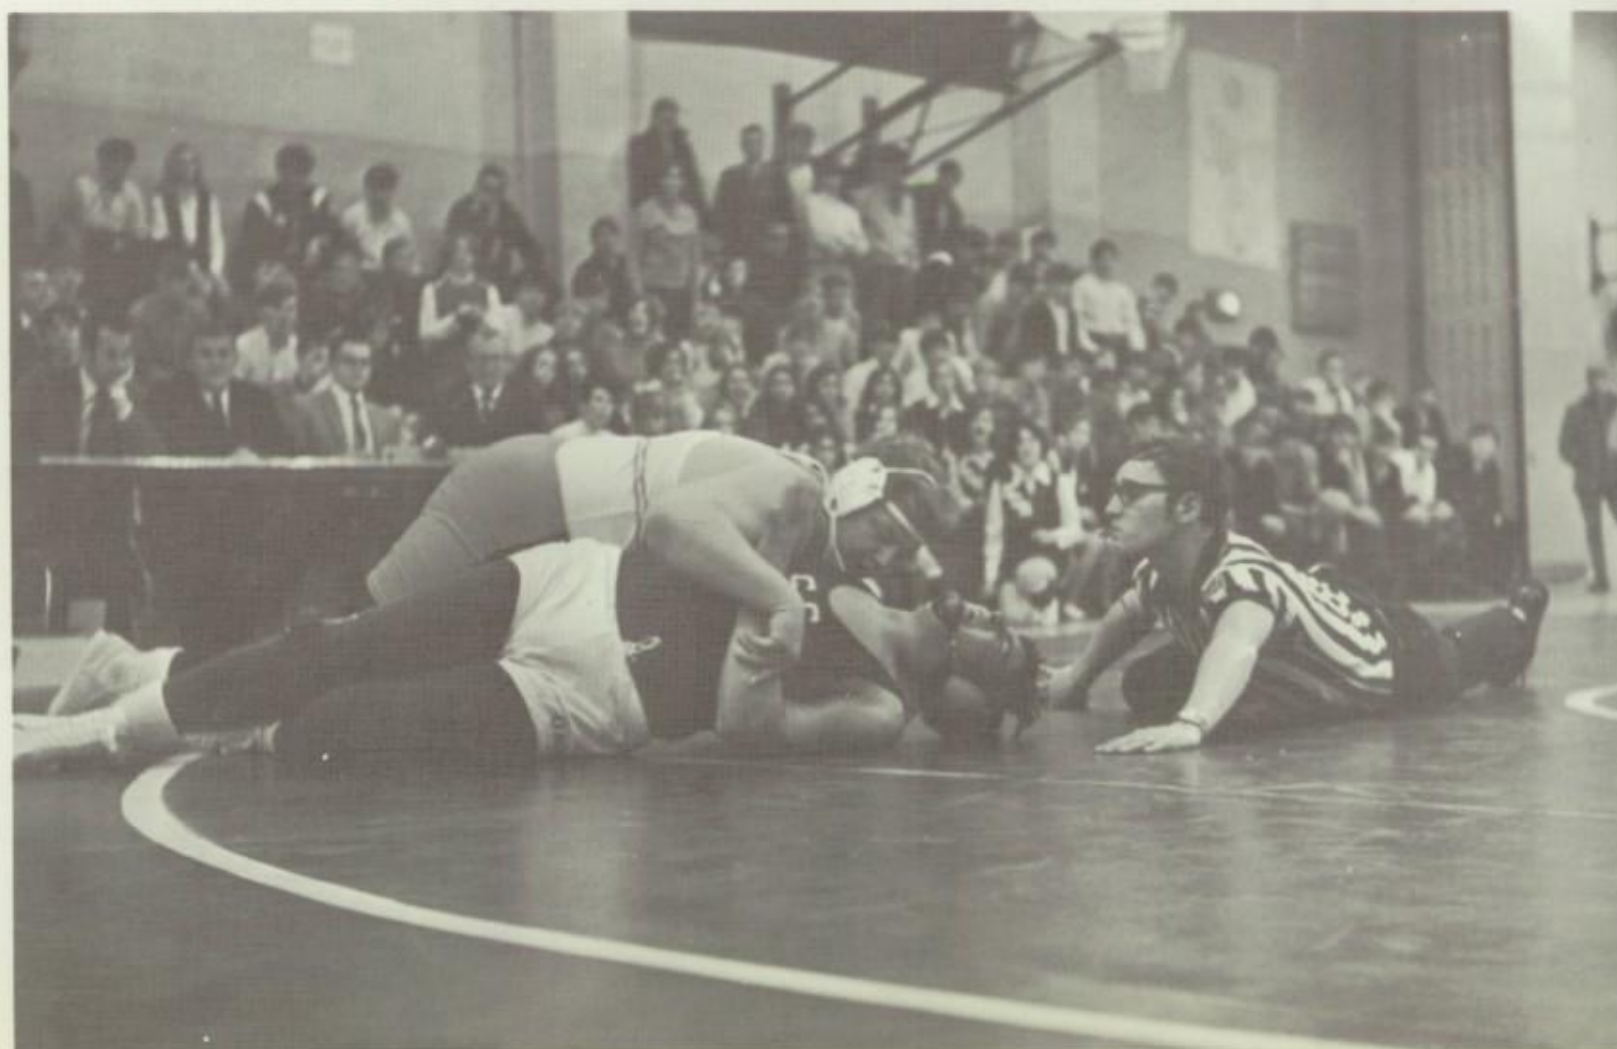

Oh dear, if one more boys falls through the mat...

Sock it--Toomey!

Here we go Larry, here we go!.

Promptly at 3:45 the volleyball team could be seen filtering into the gymnasium. The phrase "I got it" echoing through the atmosphere signified the beginning of a new season, a championship season for C.H.S.

The V-ball players went through a strenuous training program every night beginning with the rope climbs where everyone went "ape". After a night of precision drills and hard playing the team was required to sprint full speed across the gym, sailing effortlessly over the finish line, and sometimes into the wall.

However, this hard work soon paid off for the mighty Panthers who went on to an undefeated season, bringing home the Division Championship. Each game was characterized by the words of their fearless coach Mrs. Kottmyer, "Set - spike ... set-spike," that spurred them on to success.

Highlighting the '69 season was the York County Championship game where Central suffered a questionable, but nevertheless, heart-breaking defeat at the hands of York Suburban. However, this loss did not save Mrs. Kottmyer from the showers, nor did it discourage the girls who promised to "wipe up" next year.

"Spike it" and fly HIGH!

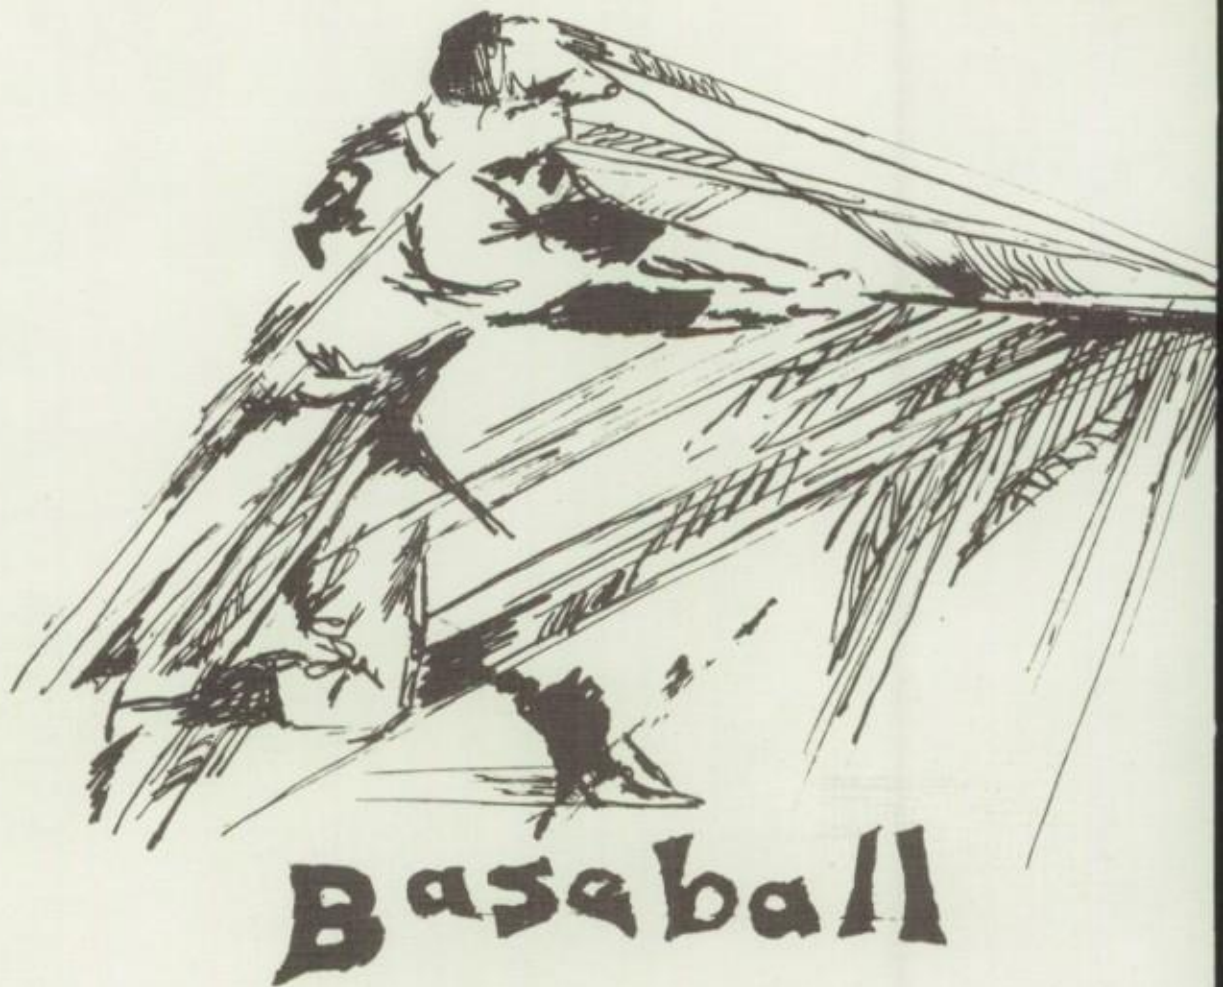

Right Guard needed here?

Who says "Mama" knows best?

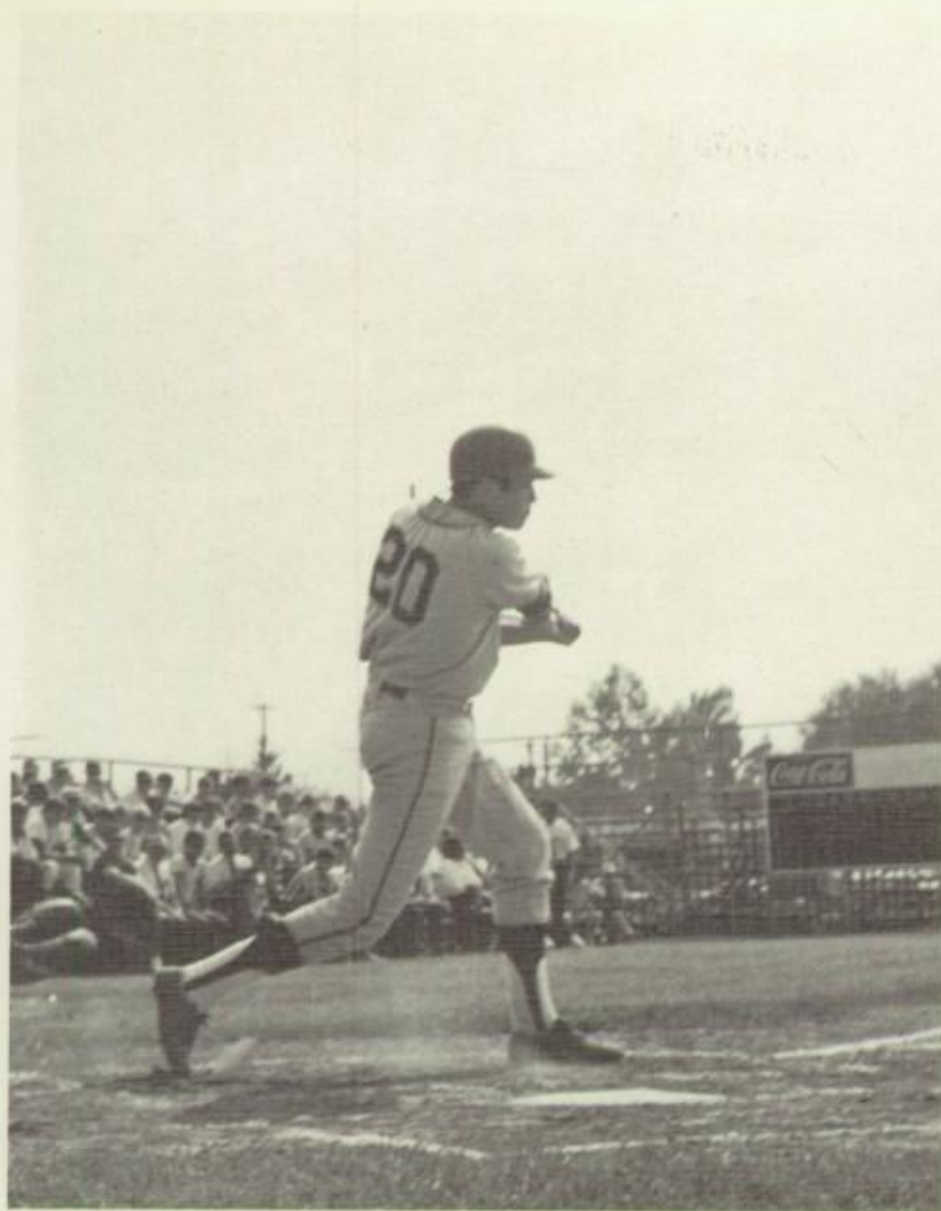

The Panther baseball team capped off a 7-4 season by defeating Northeastern for the Western Division crown and then came through with an astounding encore by taking the YCIAA championship from under York Suburban's nose. Seniors Frank Frey, Mike Campbell, Gordy Snyder, Tom Lease and Jere Denlinger, with the help of juniors Mike Spry, Craig Mehring and Tom Beshore responded well to the challenge. of an evenly matched league by winning six of their last seven regular contests.

Looking back at the '69 season, the Panthers were disgusted, a bit tipsy and truly estatic.

THE 1969 CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Denlinger rounds third.

Pre-game anticipation.

Central's answer to Willie Mays . . . fouls.

On May 28, 1968, the Panther baseball nine defeated York Suburban to bring the first county baseball crown in 23 years to Central. Much of the credit was given to '69 graduate, Frank Frey who pitched a six-hitter and collected two hits, one driving in the winning score.

The Central fans who gathered at York's Memorial Stadium at 4 o'clock that afternoon, hoped the championship jinx of the '68-'69 school year would be broken at last. Their hopes were heightened when in the second inning, Jere Denlinger found first base on an error and was advanced to third on Tom Lease's single and a wild pitch. Chip Fry then brought the first run in on a sacrifice fly.

The cheers subsided in the third when Suburban rallied for two runs. It took two innings for the Panthers to get the run deficit back. Mike Campbell, after a two out walk, scored on Mike Spry's triple. Central took its first lead in the sixth when Denlinger scored again in back of Tom Lease's single.

The Trojans did not give up as they played hard and tied up the game in the bottom of the sixth. The determined Panthers roared back in the last inning as Tom Beshore scored the fourth and winning run on Frank Frey's single.

After Frey finished off the Suburban team in the bottom of the seventh, wild pantemonium erupted as the fans and team jubilantly ended the most successful season of the year.

Spry comes home to score.

There's going to be a celebration tonight!

Just don't stand there, do something!

"How SWEET it is!"

Under the able leadership of Coach Myers and Coach Sweger, the track and field men harried, vaulted, and threw their way to a 2-4 season. High point scorers were seniors Steve Lehman and Rod Conway, followed close behind by Hart, Wickstrom, Noonan, and Damon. After a disheartening loss to Red Lion and York Catholic in a tri-meet, the omnipotent "sindermen" with the ever present athletic support of Swege's Boys slipped past Hanover by 3 points and ended the season with a 63-60 win.

In summing up the season Coach Myers said, "Lets Go Team."

First Row, Left to Right: D. Spangler, J. Tangen, K. Snyder, D. Folkenroth, J. Nicholas. Second Row: L. Snyder, E. McCarthy, M. Schaeffer, K. Davis, V. Walker.

What is the purpose of G.A.A.? Naturally, to pay the Varsity Club bills. These hard working letter winners also take charge of the Homecoming dance, promote girls' athletics, discover new injuries, and pay the Varsity Club bills.

In the standard uniform of yellowed sweat socks, faded B.V.D. T-shirts, shredded sneakers, and frayed cut-off jeans stolen from their brothers, these dedicated athletes relentlessly flick, scoop, spike, drive, cheer, and pay the Varsity Club bills.

One would suppose that all the G.A.A. does is pay the Varsity Club bills, but this is not so. It also pays the G.A.A. bills!

Varsity Club members, besides being the nucleus of Central's sports program, perform valuable services to C.H.S. Co-sponsors of the Homecoming dance along with G.A.A., they laboriously hang hula-hoops, arrange chairs, and sometimes drop motors into the fountain while the girls give the plays.

Building sound minds and bodies is uppermost in their minds, and their familiar cry can be heard ringing in the halls, "Wanna' see me flex?"

While Varsity Club members can easily lift a ton, they must concentrate to spell it, and they leave it up to G.A.A. to pay for it.

As a famous man once said, "The future of the society is judged by the physical condition of their young men." If this is true, just think what Central has to look forward to!

The Riviera, the beauty of Paris, the windmills of Denmark, the vibrancy of Latin America, the flavor of the Orient. These are only a few of the many sights and sounds that greeted twenty-four of Central's foreign travelers this summer. With such an obvious interest shown in excursions abroad and in hopes of drumming up support, the A.F.S. Club was formed. Working with a Student Council committee, the club sponsors money-making projects to assist our exchange students. Spurred on by "Big Rude" and our "Turkish Tweetheart", Nil, the club holds anything from sub sales to dances and even shares of support in the bargain. This organization is open to any student and offers a chance to further understanding and friendship throughout the world.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

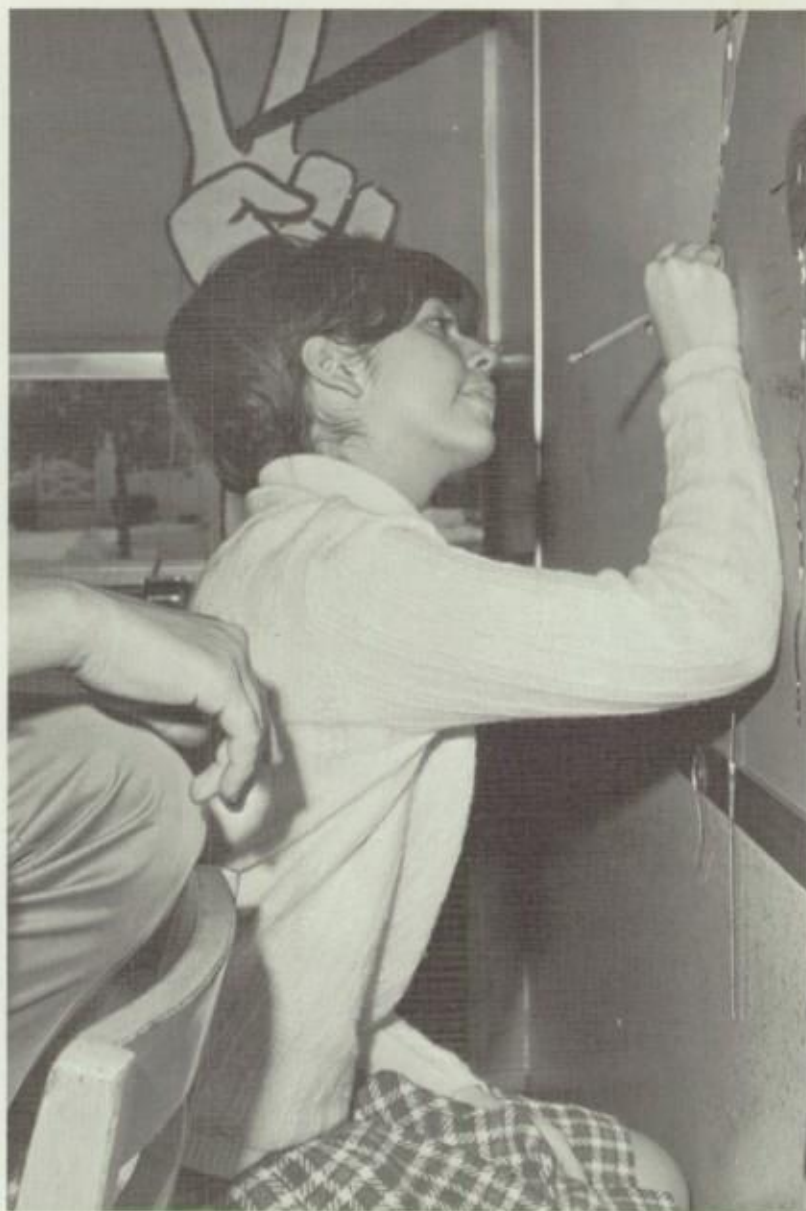

The members of the National Honor Society are those students who have acquired scholastic achievement. The students must maintain an eighty-eight per cent average. The members excel in character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

These four characteristics are shown in the member's everyday life. The free study periods given to the students to encourage good management of time and to enable the student to develop better study habits are used for everything from ping-pong playing, eating lunch, visits to the library, to a fun get-together in Conference Room 204.

All the members of the Society are very sophisticated in character and manner. They would never dream of cutting up a teacher or differing with the set pattern of Central's school life. To find a perfect gentlemen or young lady, all you must do is cast a view in the direction of the Honor Society.

Each year an Honor Society trip is planned; that is, if their budget can afford it. The trip is one of historical or literary importance. In 1969, the members visited the Naval Academy in Annapolis, where Mrs. Wallick and Mr. Denison had trouble keeping the girls under control. Unfortunately for the boys, there weren't many girls wandering around, except those from Central. Also, they visited the historical Fort McHenry. Although it was cold, the members enjoyed walking around the fort, climbing into the storage area and observing the various weapons.

Yes, the Honor Society is an added pleasure to the student's daily life, especially when they don't have to stay in study hall.

The PROWLER subscription campaign got off to a wild start as Diane Lutes, business manager, led her staff streaming through the halls of Central chanting: What's the news across the nation? We have got the information. In a way we hope to amuse (La Ta Di Da). Ladies and Gents, Central looks at the news.

With this type of kick-off the campaign couldn't help but be a success, although it fell short of its goal of 600 subscriptions.

This year the newly formed journalism class took over the duties of writing material for the Prowler with the opportunity also open to any member of the student body...and Mr. Harteis.

Through the monthly lay-out sessions the staff was finally able (with their sticky fingers from paste-up sessions) to get the Christmas issue printed in psychedelic green ink. After this feat was achieved they set the new goal--red print for the Valentine issue.

If this trend of fruition continues, progress is inevitable.

You bet your BOTTOM dollar we're going to revise the dress code!

Student Welfare "for the good of all concerned"; this phrase became the motto of Council 1969-70. With activity as its main objective President-Joe Nicely and crew plunged onward to their goals, fulfilling many of the chores set before them. Mention the word welfare...and homeroom representatives were added, enabling a greater, more diversified opinion to be expressed by those at Central. Think back to community service and the memory of a lobby filled with clothing as well as basketball fans comes to mind. Moving from the record-breaking Bundle Days drive try to remember a coke machine for the old gym and the first steps in the controversial issue of a student dress code. All this was the progress of Council as they operated in an air of less social status--and more on getting things accomplished.

Welfare was not the only area where efforts were made. Once again the stage was transformed into its Homecoming beauty and the assembly and half-time shows were presented through the courtest of Student Council. The gym resounded with the echo of hoof-beats as more than one participant made an --- of himself; this was the sell-out crowd at the Donkey Basketball Game an over-whelming success which added new revenue to the organization's treasury. And, talking in terms of $'s and ¢'s, the projects of chocolate sales, mobile school store, and Slave Day added significantly to the account. A Student-of-the-Month award was initiated to recognize the deserving but often unrecognized members of Central's enrollment, and an exchange program was set up to discover the governments of other schools. From foreign exchange to assembly programs, Student Council was the essence of activity.

STUDENT WELFARE

Bundleing up!

Don't anybody light a match!

Well, Davis only made three mistakes this time.

But, through all of their other chores, a still more important goal was met, an action which was to become the trademark of Council '69-'70--this was the earnest desire for this organization to become more independent, free to make its own decisions with less interference from school authorities. Thus, in a combined effort with the Administration, this year's government strove to gain more say in the control of the students' education and their lives. Communications developed and blossomed into the creation of a Student Advisory Board founded for the purpose of giving a teen-age viewpoint of issues to the School Board. Much was accomplished in the area of involvement with Central's policies ranging from debate on the dress code to the shortening of the nine period day.

The channels for discussion were opened and established.

Yes, the progressive power of youth forged ahead with the work of these students. But, without the concerned supervision of their advisor, Mr. Kuhn, these improvements might not have been possible. His action enabled the wheels of success to move Council, and we thank him for giving many hours of his time, talents, and understanding.

The ground work has been laid for the future. The foundation of many new activities and ideas has been set. All is ready for succeeding councils--we hope they will continue to improve and build upon the achievements of the past.

HOMECOMING 1969

Her Majesty and her court.

A helping hand for Her Majesty.

A hush settled over the auditorium as the first sounds of "Pomp and Circumstance" filtered through the air. The nine lovely court members were escorted to the stage. The suspense mounted until only one girl was left, Miss Joy Auchey, our 1969 Homecoming queen. Those in the queen's court included: Miss Kathy Davis, Miss Joy Everhart, Miss Nilufer Göksan, Miss Jessica Innerst, Miss Sue M. Miller, Miss Marsha Schaeffer, Miss Lynnette Snyder, Miss Kari Spilhaug. A tribute of applause greeted Miss Auchey as she took her walk down the lighted ramp. Miss Karen Shanabrough and Mr. Timothy Roach, 1969 Central alumni, were on hand to address the Homecoming audience. The remaining minutes of the assembly moved quickly as thoughts turned to the completion of floats for Homecoming festivities the next day. Work on the floats was slow, but by dawn each was completed for the Homecoming parade on Saturday.

HOMECOMING 1969

It was 2:30 A.M. The Senior Class of 1970 had just finished putting the last details on a winning float. My partner, Virgil Cane, and I watched with pride ... oh, by the way, my name is Saturday.

12:00 P.M. A few hours of sleep and we were right on the trail of the Central High Homecoming Parade and in hot pursuit--which is not too hard since there is only one main drag in North York. A sinister-looking character named Hersh, alias Peppy Panther, suspiciously flicked her paw (was that a "V" for Victory sign she gave?), but all were too engrossed in the festivities to notice this secret signal. The F.B.I.'S. (Future Boy Inspectors) were well-represented by their most wanted females--Queen Joy Auchey and her lovely Homecoming Court, followed by four diversionary cover-ups to mentally discourage the other team--these are commonly known as floats. Virgil and I watched and soon became accessories to the Orange and Black conspiracy that was a part of (saving their energy for their Saturday night date?). Then, finally, the Injuns gave up in disgust to journey home as the Peppy Panthers charged off to the last phase of Homecoming '69.

2:00 P.M. As the plot thickened, so did the crowd in the gridiron stands, awaiting the upcoming clash. Luckily, history did not repeat itself and the day remained cool but bright, perfect weather for a perfect Homecoming Day. So promising were the skies that even the Indians abandoned the reservation to pay the Peppy Panthers a visit. Chief Sus and his Squaw Hannon loaded their Ford bus (Injuns are no longer just one horsepower men) with Warriors, brainwashed to tackle any problem that came up before them (this included Jimboes, Broadway Waynes and Number 12's). Alas, not even tribal dances could save them from their fate, for Central received the ball and ran for a touchdown ... then another touchdown ... and another ... and so on down the line. Coach Joe was in ecstasy, flipping his English book in the air and doing cartwheels on the field. Varsity acquired the best seats in the house as they watched the remaining massacre from the bench to wish--to ask that Homecoming would not end.

8:00 P.M. Old gyms never die ... but, sometimes, they do fade away in the atmosphere of soft music and "Purple Haze". Virgil and I decided real detective work must have gone into the task of tracking down over twenty hula-hoops; but, of course, nothing is impossible for G.A.A. From the ceiling these circles of childhood swung and spun in reflections of florescent pink, casting shadows in the subdued light of dark blue. Of course, no CHS Homecoming is complete without a fountain, and this year's magnificently kept all of the water in the bowl rather than on the floor. This reservoir of H2O offered a perfect place to toss a coin, splashing the person across the way and contributing to Varsity Club's fund. But, it also gave a place to wish this October 24.

Like all good things, though, October 24 finally came to a close. Floats, parades, the transformation of the old gym ... all were gone for another year.

But, don't memories last forever?

Mark-time, HO!

Central makes a name for itself.

The JOYous day has arrived.

PROM

May 31, 1969, unfolded a most memorable occasion for all who attended the senior prom, entitled "Moonlight and Roses." With the punch bowl as the center attraction only one disadvantage remained--the sweltering heat. Due to steam rising from the fast action on the dance floor, the wilting decorations soon became an obstacle for dancing couples. However, refuge could easily be sought as many walked to the outside porch for relief.

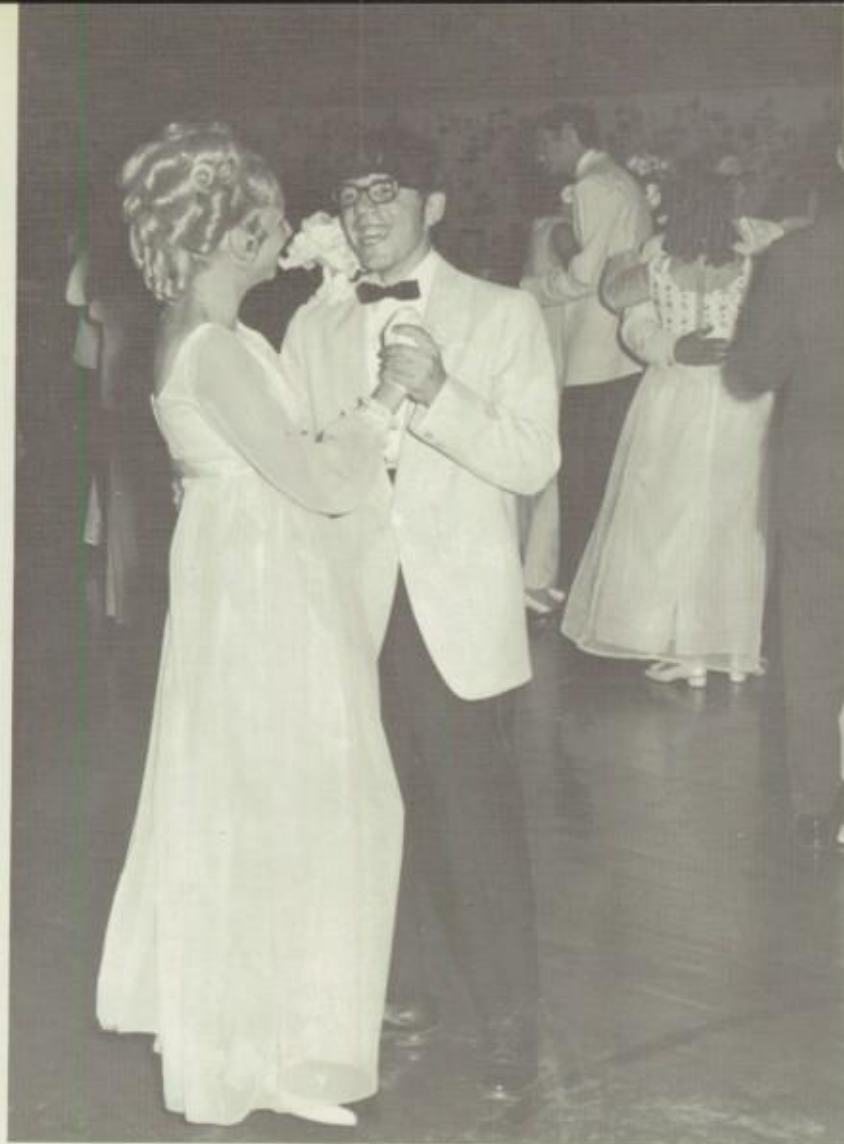

Finally, at the stroke of eleven, the gym became deserted as all-night parties and festivities began . . . and the prom was at an end.

It'll be a hot time in the old gym tonight!

Miles away from Central in February 1969, I was walking down the hall at my school with my hands full of books (as usual they're just for show; we don't really work that much), and I stopped to look through the latest news on the bulletin board. As I gazed, three big blue letters caught my attention, A.F.S. From that moment on a change was to come into my life.

Many months were to follow from the day I sent in my application to A.F.S. but then finally after all the waiting I found myself standing at Kennedy Airport. Yes! It was the end of a long flight from Jaaar, Turkey -- and the beginning of a new live in the United States.

From the start I was flung into a whirlwind of new people, different customs, float meetings (where one does anything but work), and a kaleidoscope of activities.

Football had me baffled for awhile for I found it difficult to distinguish the finer points of the sport, such as which team was on top and who or what to scream for.

Curiously enough, to the amusement of my friends, I seemed to have a highly developed Pennsylvania Dutch tongue for I already pronounced my V's like W's and vice-versa.

School was a challenge for me, but I had teachers who were always ready to lend a helping hand. In any case, I really enjoyed being a part of all the fun in this warm friendly environment.

I shall never forget any of you and the times we shared all through the year. I wish the best of luck and a bright future for all of you.

It is quite a sensation going down the lane trying to get the bus on time. Every morning the story was repeated with the exception of some falls over the melting snow or some more degrees below 32° F.. After twenty minutes of bus riding we got to Central High School. I have had many experiences in this beloved school. I can remember my first day at school during the assembly when, with my lousy English, I had to give my presentation. Everything went O.K., but I forgot to say the main thing, my name. After this my life as a "Panther" was introduced, and since then, I began walking on the blue halls and green lanes of my school.

Perhaps I will forget some things that I have learned in classes but what I could not forget is you, the people of C.H.S. From the very beginning I could feel your generosity helping me in everything that I needed; and afterwards, I was with you at games, classes, and parties as another friend.

All the experiences in the U.S.A., no matter how little some of them seemed to be, will become important because each one helped me to open my mind more and more, and this is the only way of understanding.

Life is a big adventure, and I think that in the U.S.A. I have lived it in its maximum splendor. For all of this, thank you. I'll be back as soon as I am able to relive nostalgically all these beautiful times.

Ah, look at those eyes!

Erin McCarthy went to the land of the mid-night sun and brought a ray of sunshine back with her. Kari Spilhaug from Helle, Norway, became not only part of Erin's household but a member of our C.H.S. family too.

Sharing the spotlight with our two other foreign exchange students, Kari entered right into the swing of things. Hours of practice after school didn't seem to phase her as she fearlessly joined the high-stepping Pantherettes. An an honorary member of the senior class, flower fluffing seemed to be just her bag, and she was rewarded for her work by a crown in the Homecoming court.

Unfortunately, Kari had to leave before the year was up and return to her home for Christmas. We at Central hated to lose such a vivacious and delightful friend for Kari seemed to live up to the old adage that blondes do have more fun.

When asked about the United States she said, "I love it;" which is not so surprising for she probably brought a little of that love with her.

THEY WENT, THEY SAW, THEY CONQUERED

The summer of '69 came and 23 CHS students went, more than what went from any other school in the U.S.A. Where they went is still under debate, but they've all returned now with stories of Paris, Mexico City and Madrid. There are some other stories too but we won't go into them. Never-the-less it is generally agreed that wherever they went was better than what the rest of us went through here in York.

A panorama of the Eiffel Tower.

With a flying take-off from Dallas International, I landed safely in Paris, France. I was the guest of Monsieur and Madame Icard and their two daughters Claude, 18 and Colette, 20. The family resides in an apartment in Levallois-Perret, a suburb of Paris, so our trips into the city were daily.

Claude and Colette are students so they acted as excellent guides of the city. As is traditional, I visited the Arc de Triomphe, the Eiffel Tower, Notre Dame and the Louvre Museum. My happiest moments were spent touring the Museum of Modern Art and the Museum of Impressionism, watching the students on Boulevard Saint Michel, taking a canoe ride in the beautiful lake of the Bois de Boulogne, shopping in the exquisite shops of Paris, and simply walking down the streets sensing a part of the beautiful city. Perhaps my most memorable hours were spent in Montmartre. This section of Paris is most exciting at night. The artists paint portraits and landscapes, while music and laughter can be heard from those seated at café tables. From the steps in front of Sacre Corur in Montmartre one sees the entire city of Paris spread out before him.

Time will never dissolve the memories I have of the Icards, Paris, and the friendly, care-free people I met. Perhaps my experiences can be relived when I hopefully return to Paris one day.

Norway, "the land of the Midnight Sun," with its majestic fjords and snow-capped mountains was my foster home last summer. For seven weeks I was the guest of the Tor W. Spilhaug family with our home in Helle, a small industrial town near Kragerø. This summer tourist town in southern Norway was to become my key of exploration in the Scandinavian paradise.

Along with a new language came different customs and food; reindeer, kalrabi stappe, and an assortment of fish constituted our diet. One thing I'll always treasure is that most everyone treated me as a fellow countryman. They were as interested in the American language as I was in their's.

So impressed was I with all of Norway's shining qualities that I decided to bring a part of it back--my sister Kari. I hope that CHS has enjoyed her visit as much as I loved her and her warm and wonderful friendship and country.

DENMARK

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to be totally and wonderfully free? Free is how I can best describe my feelings during my stay in Denmark. My Danish families were much like my own at home, and we spent many days together, sight-seeing, traveling or just talking. But, as is the way with most Danes, they respected my individuality and I spent much of my trip discovering Denmark in my own way.

My favorite days were spent in Copenhagen. Up at 9:00, I caught the 10:00 train going to the heart of the city. There I spent the entire day wandering through shops, taking pictures, and touring museums. It was on these days that my chosen profession was "people-watching," and I soon felt like a Dane loving the Danish capital.

In Copenhagen a person can become anyone or anything they want, from a traveling minstrel on the Strøget, to a child reborn at fairy tale Trivoli. Now, when I think of Denmark, I remember the experiences I lived, the people I loved and a dream to return someday.

ITALY

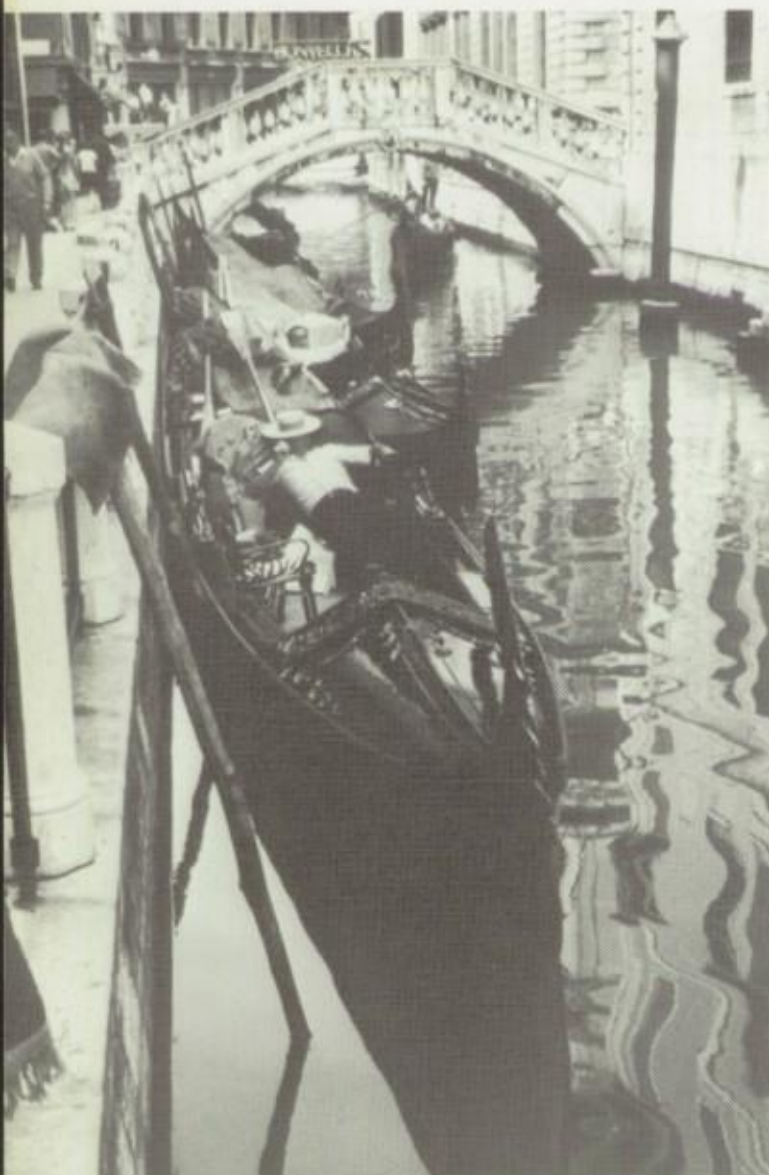

"Areeva-der-che" America! Hello "Italia!" as I journeyed across the seas for an unforgettable vacation in Italy. With the wonders of this Mediterranean country, the home of Cassanovas and Venetion blinds, my month and a half of travel passed by all too quickly, but, the memories of my stay will linger forever.

My first two weeks were spent in Bergamo the family of Doctor Livio Moretti. In their fascinating city I discovered the beauty of a community in a split-level design. The old part of Bergamo is located on the last foot hill before the Italian plain. However; its modern offspring has expanded to stretch into the wide valley below. It was here, with my first brother that I discovered the canals of Venice, remembering this spot as one of the most beautiful I've ever seen.

The fourteen days that followed found me in Savigliano, a small town on the plain. It took two weeks for me to get acquainted with them, to become accustomed to their ways. and to speak the language sufficiently. Participating as a true member, I soon found myself part of the chore detail, involved in a few arguments, but always a much included "brother" in all the joys of family living.

All too quickly time seemed to fly by. After visiting Rome, Venice, the shore, and a little bit of the Alps in Switzerland, I found that there was much more to live for in Italy than I could possibly obtain in ten weeks. But I wasn't sorry to leave for I departed with the mutual promise of seeing my family again.

Allen Rush

Gondolas in the canals of Venice.

Hospitality thrives in this atmosphere, for the people here are the friendliest and warmest one would ever hope to meet. There was never a dull moment with three host brothers to act as travel guides and all of Italy to explore.

All too soon my final destination found me in Marina de Carrara, the seaside home of manufacturer Luigi Coccas and his family. Mornings were spent in the sun's rays at the beach or on boat; excursions to the crystal clear alcoves. It also brought memories of home to me for Carrara's boasts of its rich marble quarries, some of which was used in the making of the "Statue of Liberty."

Suddenly it was time to deport and retire temporarily from my position of tourist. But, with me, I took the souvenirs of an experience which I believe everyone should have. The actual living with a family in the true customs of a land is the best way to learn about a country.

MEXICO

I remember 1000 things about Mexico. Sometimes I dream in Spanish. Often I will hear a person laughing as the Señora Rodríguez laughed or, in odd places, an American will look like one of the Indian servants that I liked to talk to. I can remember so clearly the train ride from Monterrey to Guanajuato, and I remember the long cobblestone walk to classes, the same shop-keepers and beggars I would pass each day, and the smell of San Miguel's market place, the jasmine flowers in the library, the guitars and dancers, and the corn taste of tortillas. I even like to recall the sad little bull-ring with a picador dressed much like poor old Don Quiote. I am anxious to feel heat again as Monterrey baked in this past summer.

I have only caught the essence of Mexico. I have learned that the best thing about Mexico is the Mexicans. These people are in love with their land, the proud history of their country, and their children.

I would like to give a hint to anyone traveling to Mexico---go slowly. A person could learn a lot in Mexico just by loafing and strolling the streets. The pushy gringos who come home with fancy sombreros and who complain about the poor hotel service know nothing about Mexico. I suggest that the traveler going south learn to speak softly and with courtesy and that he go slowly.

Leslie Fix

Four exciting weeks in the country south of the border---with the beginning of summer I found myself Mexico bound. My new home was located in Monterrey, capital of Nueva Leon, where I lived with two host families. Life in these homes was very carefree and everyone had the mañana attitude. The Señor Rios, my first host father, was a printer and the Señor Soto a Lieutenant Corporal in the Mexican Army. With my first family I traveled to Mexico City for one week. In this immense city, life moved at a faster rate than in Monterrey. Mexico City is now in the process of building its first subway. The city has many tourist attractions including the Aztec ruins, the University of Mexico, the Olympic Stadium, and the Anthropology Museum.

Sundays are special days for most Mexican teenagers. Usually they venture downtown to the plaza after dinner and spend the entire day with friends. Others may go to the afternoon bull fights where each Sunday four torros are killed. The arena has an air of excitement all of its own heightened by the tempo of the Spanish rhythm, the enthusiasm of the crowd, and the never ending courage of the matador. This is an experience that no one should pass by.

All too soon my Mexican experience ended and I started for home. I will never forget the places I saw, the customs I learned, and the people I came to love.

BRAZIL

Cleaning up.

June marked my arrival in Rio de Janeiro on a plane filled with exhausted but excited AFS'ers. We spent four days of isolation on top of a mountain in Rio getting a rush course in Portuguese. Finally on June 31st, I arrived in Bauro Sao Paulo and was met by my family, the Biojonis.

I soon discovered that I inherited a huge family of aunts, uncles, cousins, brothers, sisters, grandmothers, and of course, my mother and father. They were all fun-loving and happy, and our get-togethers often turned into hysterical prank-playings and story-telling sessions. Everyone I met was warm and friendly possessing the typical Brazilian easy going outlook.

I attended my sister Ju's, school for two weeks and presented them with a historical book about York as a gift from Central with the following inscription:

"For San José,

This book is a present from Central High School in hopes of peace and understanding between our schools, cities, and countries."

I will always cherish Brazil; the land of sugar cane plantations, rows of coffee plants, mau mau and banana trees, dazzling beaches, modern cities, bright colors, and smiling faces. It and its people have become my land and my people.

The land is what I remember most about Peru, the way it changed with every movement of the sun. I remember the way it glimmered under the freshness of the early morning light as the train pulled out of the Cuzco station. I think now of the noonday sun that made me shed my coat as I sat among the ruins of Machu Pichuu. I was astounded by the huge gorges between the narrow emerald mountains. I can still see how, at sunset, the valley turned into a gray shadow surrounded by purple mountains, some holding blue snow on their shoulders. I often feel the five o'clock sun on my body and the land rushing beneath my feet as I did when I ran with the cows at the end of the valley. At times I smell the Eucalyptus forest in which I sat and watched the shimmering sunlight sprinkle down through the mountain air. Once I even heard the sun laughing as it did when I played with Petito-throwing baboo stalks to see who could toss them the farthest. I eat oranges and remember the oranges I ate by the salt mines and how their juices tasted like pure sunshine in my mouth. The vision of the Indian woman and her children whose faces held the sun remains in my mind. I know now why the Incas are called the children of the sun, and the land of Peru will belong to them forever.

The Eiger, Much, and Tungfrau

On June 21, 1969, I left the United States to spend ten glorious weeks in Switzerland. I flew by jet from Baltimore to London, England, Where I then boarded a plane to Zurich.

It was there that I was to meet my first family, the Acherwanns. We traveled from Zurich to my new home in Lucerne, located in central Switzerland. Lucerne was filled with the past. Its old water tower, fortifications, and bridges capture the history of the city as well as an unbelievably beautiful country.

Six weeks flew by, and it was time to meet my second family, the Beers, who also lived in Lucerne. I was feeling quite at home in Lucerne; but, unfortunately, the clock does not stop. Two weeks had marched by and I was off to Tenero, site of the Swiss Lions International Youth Camp. Youngmen from all over the world came to participate in discussions, seminar, sports and fun. It was a treasured experience filled with adventure.

Switzerland is a marvelous little country, and I was saddened as I departed from the land which I grew to love and enjoy.

Thanks to the Manchester Township Lions Club, The Lucerne Lions Club, and the families which took me in just like a member of their own family; I now have many unforgettable experiences on which to look back.

I had to think more and think deeper than I ever did before. My ideas have been challenged. Some, I have found weak and have changed. Others I have found true and have strengthened. Still other ideas have been gained where before there were none. My ideals and dreams have been raised and have, at the same time, become imbued with an awareness of the practical aspect of problems. I prize highly the friendships I have made and intend to maintain during my life. I have become inspired to work, to serve, and to lead my fellowmen to the ideals of freedom, peace, and mutual understanding.

TIME OUT FOR GINGER

You know, I'm really starting to hate jelly beans.

My daughter wants to do what?

On January 15 and 17, the Dramatics Club presented its first play of the season, "Time Out for Ginger", directed by Mr. Robert Harteis. This is the heart-warming story of Ginger, girl animal (Cindy Davis) who tries out and makes the Varsity football team resulting in a conflict between her father (Bob Henderson) and the typical "middle American" society in which he lives. Virgil Cane Suzie Belle, and J. P. Hollingsworth combined their talents (with added support from Melvin Fud-pucker) in giving special assistance to this highly acclaimed production.

Special commentaries on the all-American boy computer (Bill Schenck) and the red-white-and-blue boy athlete (Steve Seyler) were added along with two girl-next-door type sisters (Sue Mook and Janet Sewock). A fine portrait of the typical high school principal was presented by Richard McKinley and none other than Pete Woolson played the capitalistic bank president. As the average American housewife and mother was Elaine Becker and as the maid, Grace King. Special thanks go to the set crew for constructing the typical all-American middle class dwelling in which this action packed play took place.

BRIGADOON

Central playgoers entered a world of skirling bagpipers and swinging skirts as the curtain went up on the musical fantasy "Brigadoon." May marked the opening night of Central's annual musical under the direction of Mr. Gail T. Denison and Mrs. Beverly Klinefelter.

"Brigadoon," a cry for happy musical, revolved around a small town in the Scottish Highlands, which appears once every hundred years. Fiona McClaren, a village lass, falls in love with Tommy Albright, a visiting American. Unable to leave Brigadoon, Fiona almost persuades Tommy to stay, but his side kick, Jeff Douglas, convinces him that the whole town is a mere dream. However, as cry for happy musicals go, Tommy returns to Fiona for, as Mr. Lundie says, "If you love someone enough, anythin' is possible, even miracles."

Next . . .

"Come to me, bend to me."

"He lives down the road in a tree."

"I'll be a fine and lovin' wife."

"Poor Harry Beaton is dead."

"I'm leaving Brigadoon."

"Anythin is possible, even miracles."

The Making of a "THES."

NATIONAL THESPIAN SOCIETY TROUPE 1649

The goal of most any Dramatics Club member is to be initiated into the National Thespian Society. Struggling to earn the 100 points necessary for admission, the student will try most anything from make-up to a part in the Dramatics Club play. Other point earning activities include working on the Dramatic Club float (2 points an hour) and ushering at York Little Theater, a truly dramatic experience. All in all a member of the Thespian Society gains a broad background in the many facets of theater art.

"Ladies and Gentlemen: We proudly present to you ... the 1969 Central High School Panther Marching Band."

Spirit? They had it! From the goal line to the final formation at every step and turn PRIDE in C.H.S. was evident. With fearless Mr. Mac as their guide, these musicians achieved numerous earth-shaking feats ----- a battle of the bands with W.Y. ("Eat 'em up" one more time), the longest chorus line in the County, and the sound effects to every hockey practice. Neither rain nor cold nor sloppy fields could keep these mighty Panthers from performing their show ----- one way or another!! Add to their accomplishments parades, pep rallies and victory marches and the combination for a successful year is reached, a year of BAND POWER marching on!

COLORGUARD

Right Shoulder, WHAT?

Sergeant - Lynnette Snyder

First Row, Left to Right: S. Saylor, B. Kuklinski, D. Keagy, J. Brickner, J. Morningstar, J. Stough, K. Kline,

S. Smith. Second Row: B. Crebs, E. McCarthy, B. Baughman, L. Snyder, J. Sewock, K. Everhart, P. Muller.

MAJORETTES

Boots - in white and black, tasseled with yarn; what do they represent? Why, none other than the Central High Band Front, leading the show. "Give a look" to the football field and watch their performance - six flags caught in the wind with their owners hanging on for dear life! Following them is a colorguard sergeant, complete with sword, screaming her commands ("Don't forget to keep knee socks tucked INTO the boots!"). "Give a look" to the sidelines - majorettes can be Charleston dancers, too! And, thank goodness for fire batons at sub-freezing night games! "Give a look" one more time and watch Central's own Pantherettes "dance to the music" with top hats and canes as well as flags. All this, plus a high-stepping, whistle-tweeting band majorette to complete the picture.

What do you have? Fifty pairs of boots with their swingin' owners - and the makings for the C.H.S. Band Front, leading the way!

Naugle, K. Lemkelde, D. Botterbusch, J. Bloom, J. Winter, B. Kohr, T. Rightnour, S. Cawley, S. Poff, C. Kindig.

As the Marching Band folded its banner, the Concert Band ceremoniously rolled out the tympani for a season of cultural enlightenment. Again under the direction of Mr. MacFarland, the band hit new heights as it debued on the C.H.S.S. stage for the annual Christmas Concert. Rehearsal soon began for their Spring Concert held March 21. Only subs and the promise of trip to Memphis could interrupt their tuneful schedule.

Yes, the band had hopes of taking the C.H.S. Panthers to Memphis, Tennessee, for a gala parade weekend. Only after bushels of shredded lettuce, raffle tickets and a television set would the band realize its goal of 10,000 dollars. The Band Parents Association added to the general enthusiasm and all worked in the name of the Panther Band, Mr. Mac, and Memphis.

And of course, the band did go to Memphis; the perfect ending to their hopeful story.

GERMAN BAND

What is that familiar sound that echoes in the gym? Jawohl! It's the German Band! While creating a lively atmosphere with their gay music, they also inspire the spectators with their unique appearance. So follow the bouncing ball and sing along with the toneless tuba.

Um-pa-pa, um-pa-pa, um-tweedle-dee, um-tweedle-dee, um-sh-sh, um-sh-sh!

And a tip of the old straw hat to you, German Band!

During any assembly, one can hear the dulcet tones of the C.H.S. stage band issuing from a hole in the front of the auditorium generally known as the pit. These hard playing members are the most abused musicians in the band. Struggling to rise out of their pit, they seem to get little encouragement from the student audiences. Fortunately for everyone, the band does come up for a breather when they appear in the annual Spring Concert; and we can see as well as hear our very own stage band.

The making of a musician.

Achievement

DRIVER OF THE YEAR

All the world's a road and every car a vehicle. Each expressway has its exits and its entrances, and one wheel in its time treads many miles.

A stop sign by any other name would be a stop sign? Yes, and Cliff Heindel could never be anything else but the C.H.S. Driver of the Year. Whether pulling "wheelies" on his cycle (Did you "weely" do that Clifford?) or losing one wheel on a Metro (Did you "weely" do that too?), his unique style in handlin' a machine will certainly go down in Swege's History Book. And to all of this the hair-raising experience of '69 and part ownership in a 442, and one will get the winning combination for this second annual award.

Congratulations, Cliff, but we hope you get NO-KNOX in the future.

Cliff and the 442.

OPTOMIST CLUB GOOD CITIZENS

Looking to the brighter side of things, we have here the harbingers of glad tidings and great joy, of hope for the future (and EVEN for the past). Who else but Tom Beshore and Bob Snyder could imagine, say, snow in July or two plus two equaling five? For their true faith in mountain moving and ability to find a silver lining in every dark cloud (along with the rain) these optomists truly deserve the award that is bestowed on them.

Bob Snyder and Tom Beshore

BETTY CROCKER

Oh, the joy, the wild ecstasy in the starchy subject of pasta! Each morsel, each diverse, mouth-watering bite brings sunny Italy to one's taste buds. Long and lean, serve it to your teen. Short and nubby, give it to your hubby. Coils boil and stubbles bubble. Round like a wagon wheel, make a casserole with veal. Seashell shape with broasted chicken, and the pains of hunger quicken. The assortment is as endless as eternity.

And, just think! No matter what size or shape, one cup of uncooked always yields two of the cooked stuff. Right, Chief?

Deb Kaulfuss, a homemaker of tomorrow??

MERIT SCHOLARS

After three long hours of pencil-pushing and gruelling tests, two of Central's seniors emerged victorious in the National Merit Scholarship awards. John Bloom obtained a finalist position while Deb Kaulfuss received a certificate of commendation. Quite meritable, we'd say!

SENIORS OF THE MONTH

Every month three seniors are chosen by the Manchester, North York, and Springettsbury Lions Club on the basis of scholarship and service to their school and society. However, we'd like to think that they are truly seniors of the month every month of the year.

First Row, Left to Right: M. Galloway, D. Seigman, G. Briggs, W. Gouker, D. Schmidt, D. Knipel, J.

1969 PANTHER

Congratulations, PANTHER yearbook! The 1969 Editorial Staff under the leadership of Timothy Roach "brought home the bacon" once again with a second prize in the Pennsylvania Press Association's competition. Twenty-one awards out of twenty-seven? Your excellence and quality was truly deserving. Thanks for keeping this tradition.

John Bloom and Deb Kaulfuss.

D.A.R. GOOD CITIZEN

Each year Central chooses a senior to represent the school as the D.A.R. good citizen. Because of her dedicated service and scholastic achievement, Deb Kaulfuss has been elected the winner of this coveted citizenship award.

Rally 'round the flag!

PANTHER

STAFF

Words cannot express what I'd like to say about the Panther Staff, but then again, words aren't everything. In the beginning, no one realized all the time and effort needed to produce such a book, and unfortunately, some still don't know.

However, through-out the donut dunking, pretzel eating, soda drinking all-night sessions, we had our moments of laughter and tears, sleep-writing and walking, panic and despair. Despite the weather, the Kaulfuss room and board service was open to all comers, and the vacancy sign was never down.

Many moons have past since that first pow-wow, and my braves are no longer on the warpath. Although I had many reservations about the book, I along with my tribe wish you happy reading and fond memories.

You mean the movie hasn't been cancelled this time?

Now little ladies sit like this.

A moment of silence.

I'm flyin'!

How dare you take my picture?

I love ya' all, but what about my papers?

The Bobsey Twins

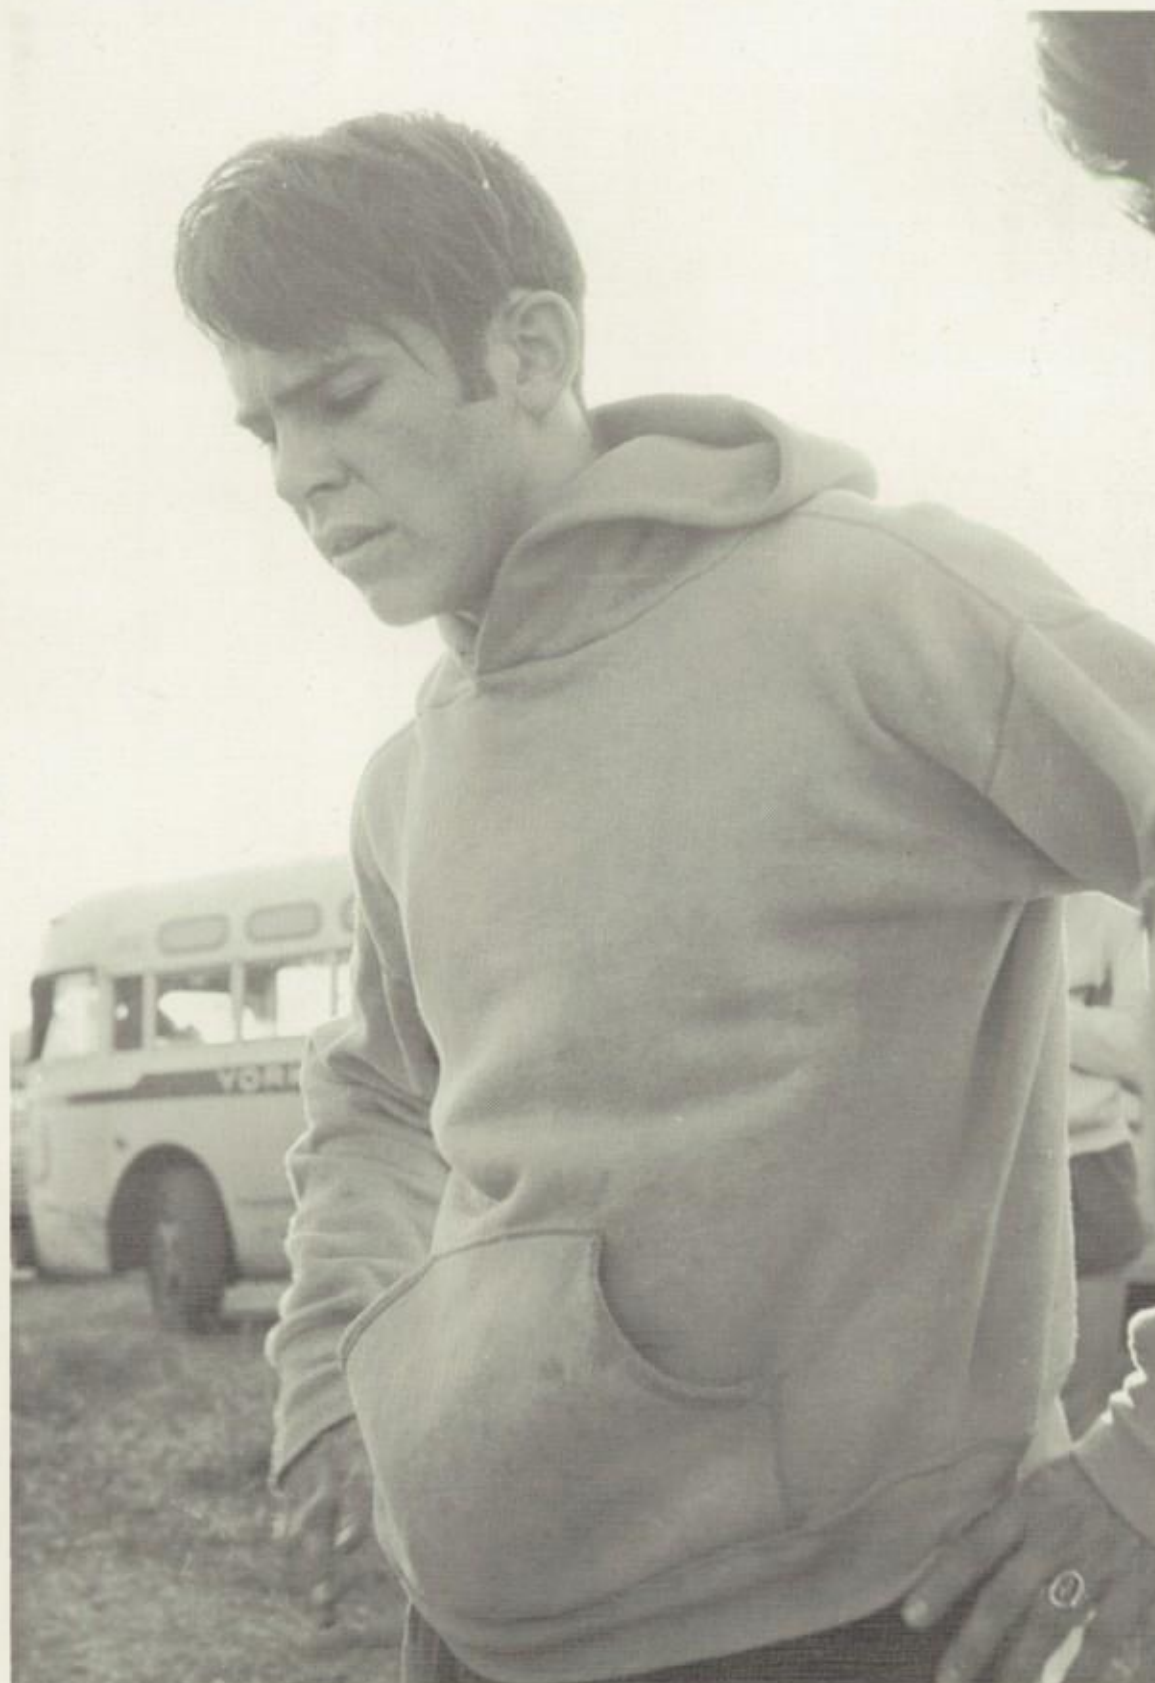

Hi, sex!

We always knew the juniors were small, but this is ridiculous.

Either that Vamlu has big feet, or we're in trouble!

Uh, Gee, could we go over that again???

Harry, if your finished reading, you may...

I'm the greatest star...

Now remember girls, we don't know a thing.

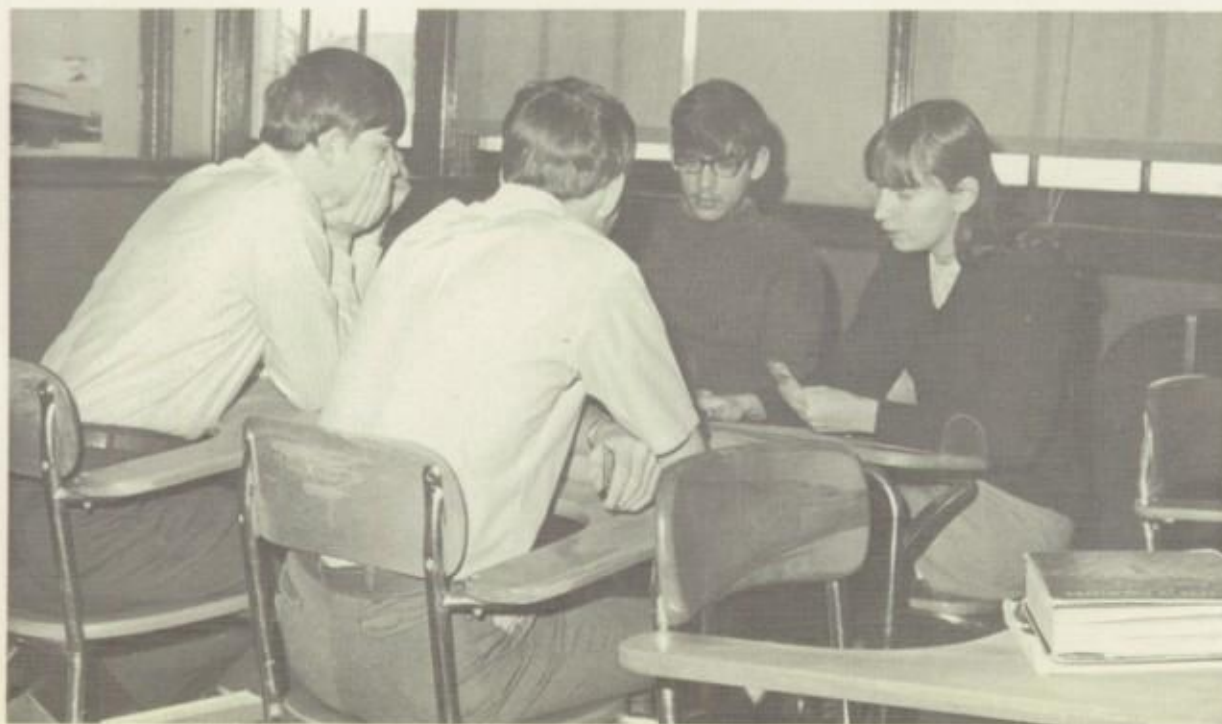

Well Spiro, you stuck your foot in your mouth again.

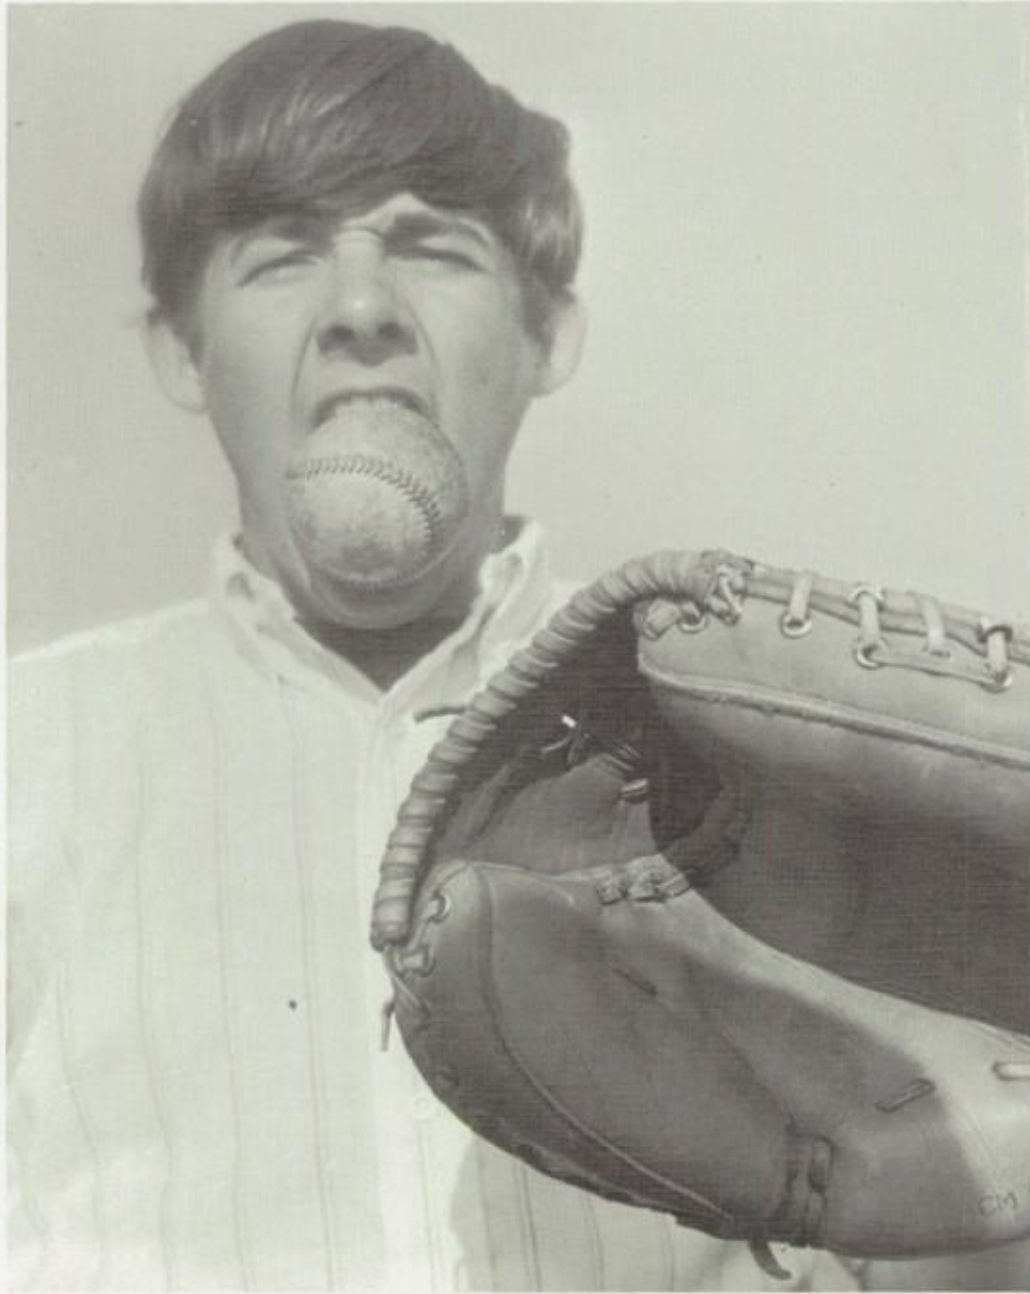

No Vamlu, not the arm drag now!

Do you have any two's?

So it really fits?

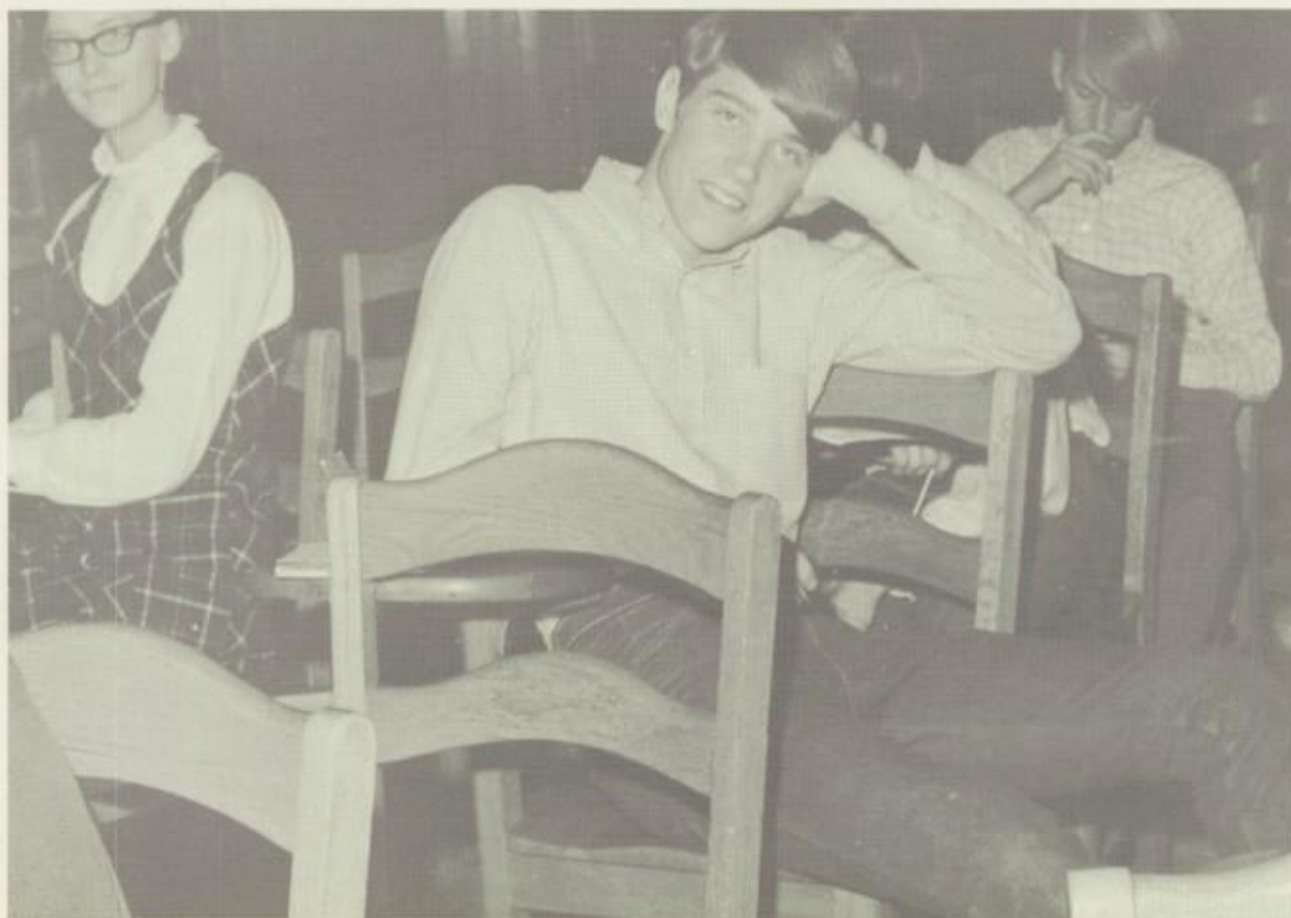

Under the table deal.

C.H.S. lockers have quite an air---ing.

No, not one step more!

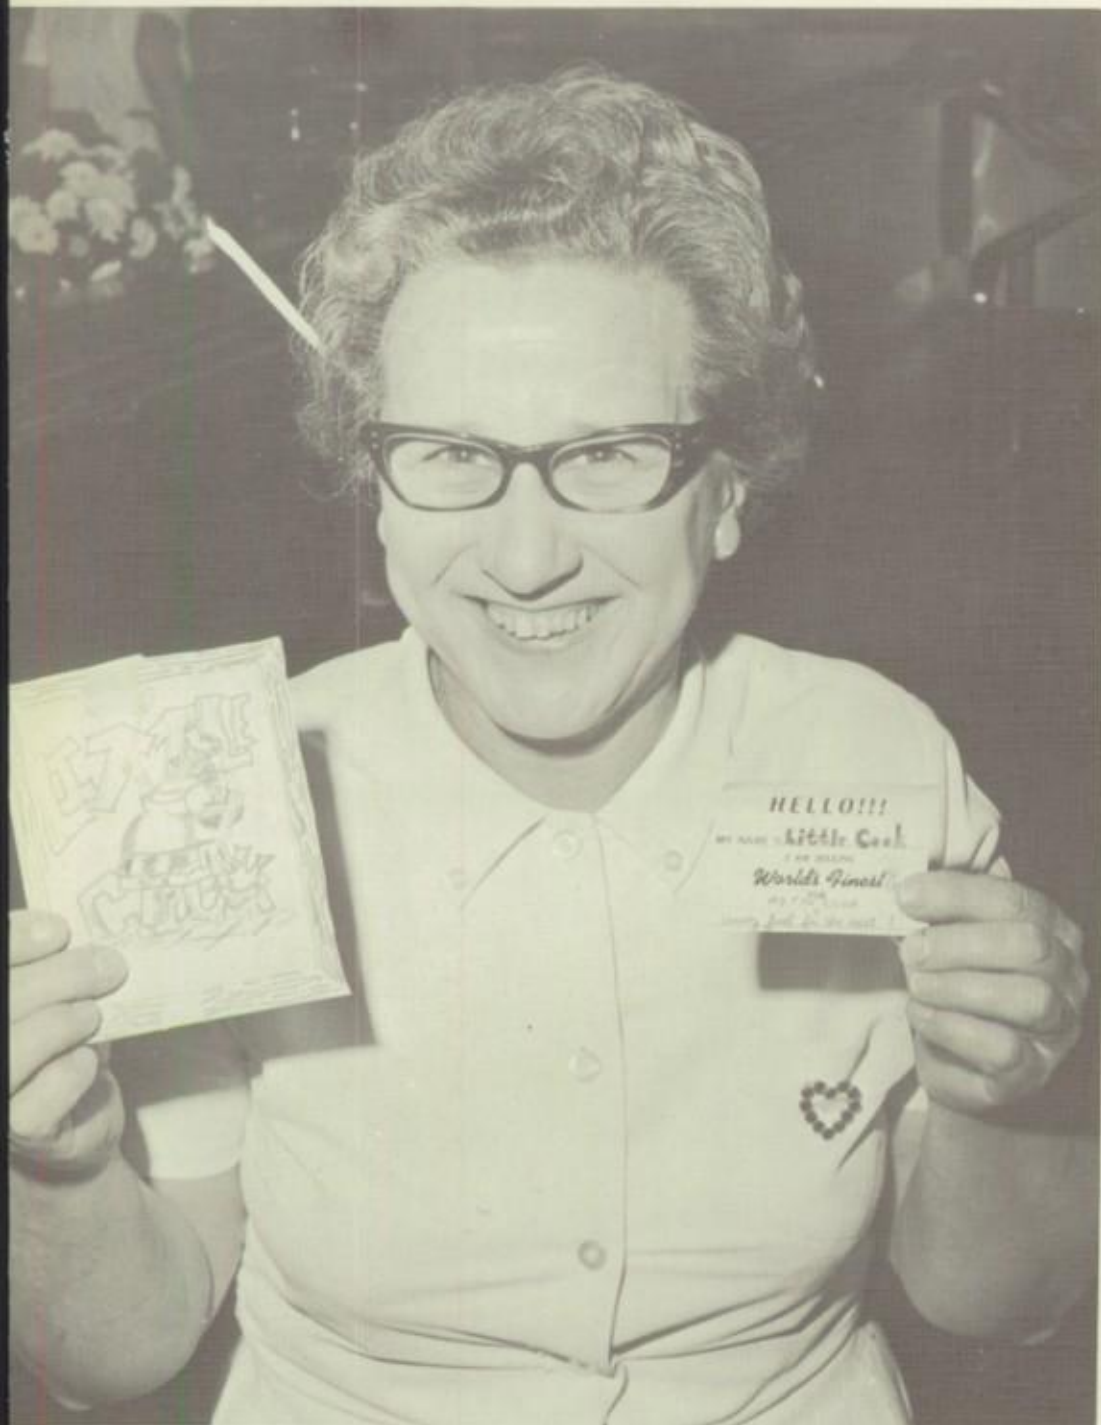

Study? Who me?

I guess Spanish just ain't my bag.

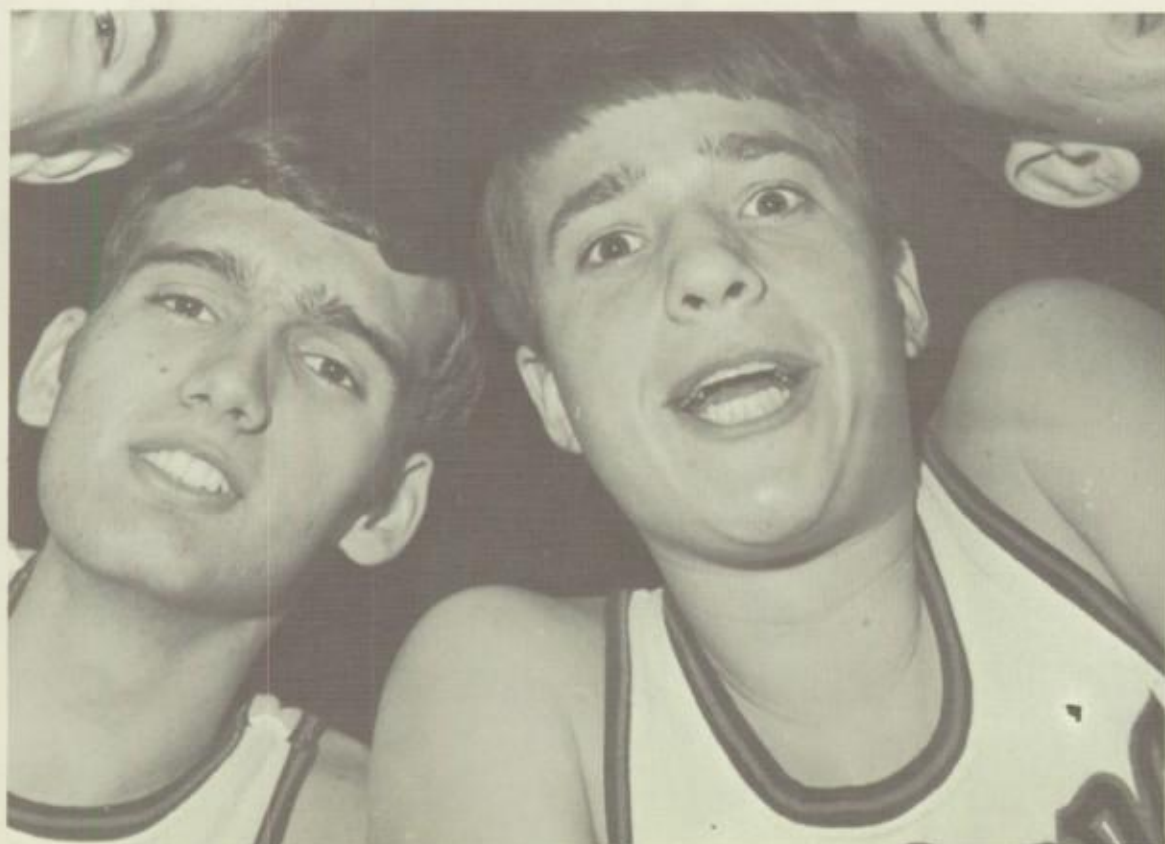

You have to be kidding--with you?

Our Little Cook.

Listen Wonders, the next time you get that ball, you know what to do with it!

And away we go!

At woodstock, New York, 500,000 young people gathered in a bond of peace and love as the dawning of the Age of Aquarius broke before them.

A nation displayed a patriotism of peace as the war in Vietnam raged on a thousand miles away. The Moratorium days will not soon be forgotten, nor will the soldiers in Vietnam.

Pollution continued to grow, menacing the lives of the people and the future of their children. Only now are laborious plans being set into motion to bring back a cleaner world.

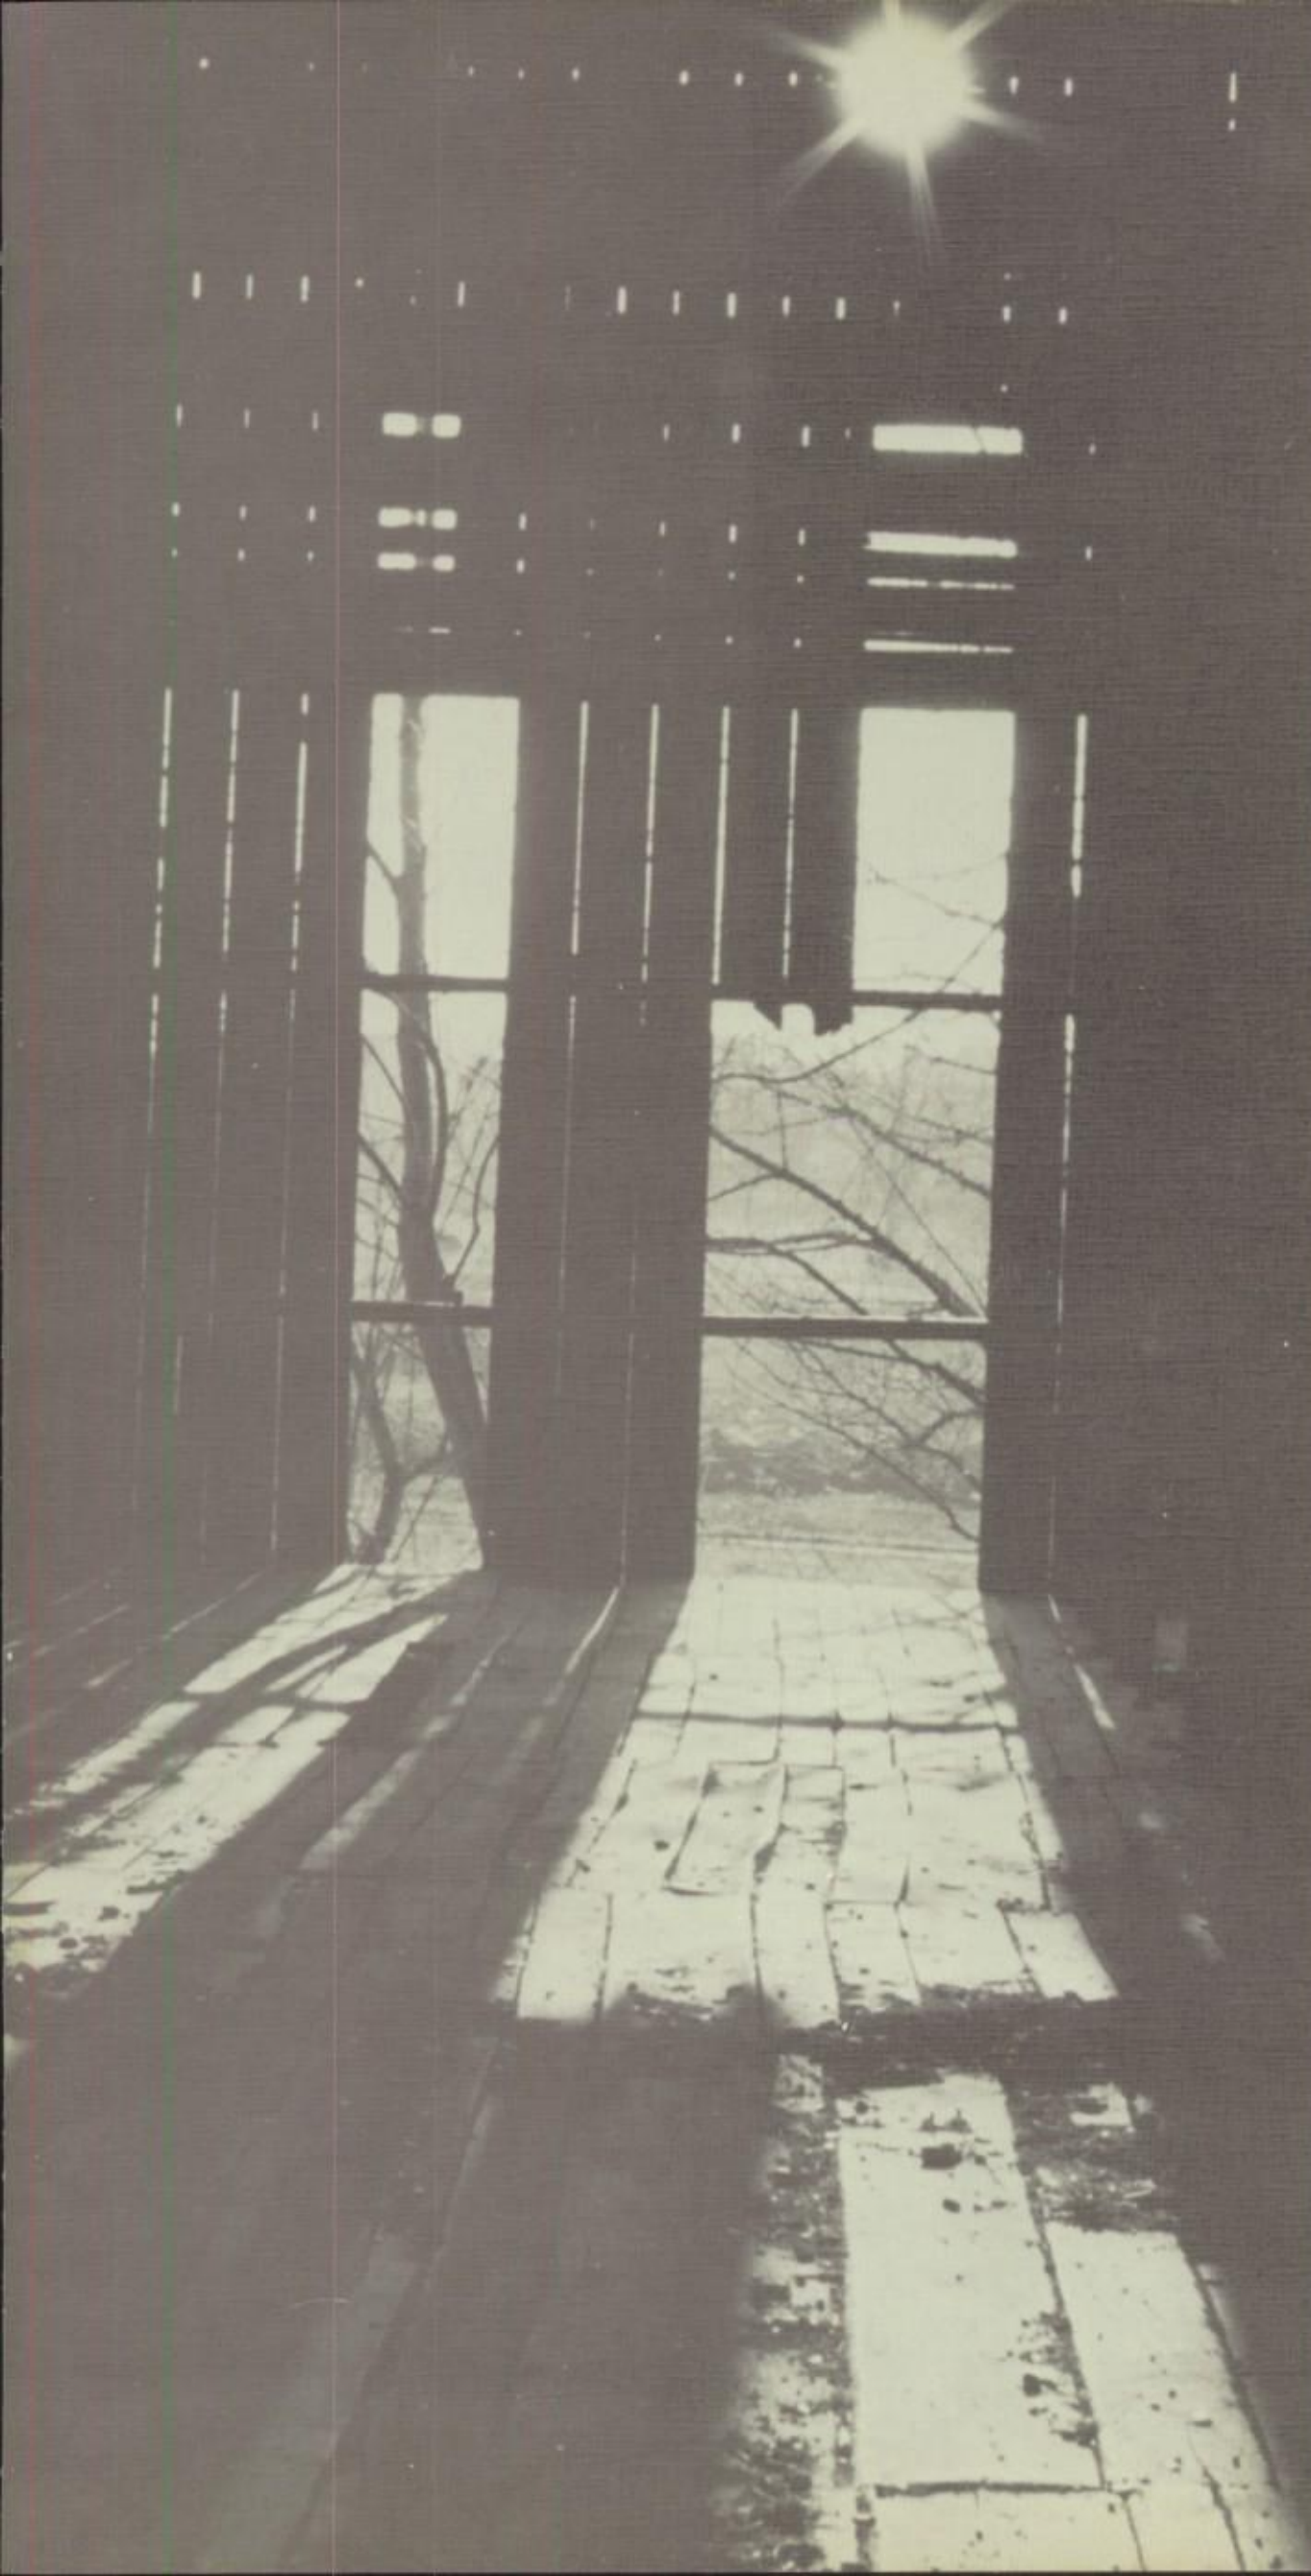

With a break-through in space, man staked his claim on the moon and took a giant step for mankind.

We at Central have also taken our own steps for mankind and his future, our future. We have confronted our small world head on, tasted heartbreak and victory, whether in activities or schoolwork; we have grown, waiting to face the world outside of Central. Now, all our hopes and dreams, ideals and fears will be unleashed, and the whole world will be watching, watching to see what we can and will do; for as every generation is, so we are--the way of the future.

The past is but the beginning of a beginning, and all that is and has been is but the twilight of the dawn...A day will come when beings who are now latent in our thoughts and hidden in our loins shall stand upon this earth as one stands upon a footstool, and shall laugh and reach out their hands amid the stars.

H. G. Wells
